

MISSOURI MEETS U.S. REQUIREMENT ON PENSION LAWS

Both Houses Pass Social Security Bills Pending in State Senate Nearly Two Months.

$2,100,000 LIKELY TO BE RELEASED

Federal Fund Withheld Pending Action—Conference Agreement Quickly Adopted.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 3.—The social security legislation, pending in the State Senate nearly two months, was finally passed by both houses of the legislature today meeting the demands of the Federal Social Security Board. It is expected that $2,100,000 of Federal funds, withheld from the State since Jan. 1, will now be released and the 75,000 persons on the old-age pension rolls may expect to receive checks some time next week. With barely enough votes in each house to pass the bills, the report agreed to yesterday by the Conference Committee, was adopted first in the House and then in the Senate, and the bills then were passed. George I. Haworth, State Social Security Administrator, notified the regional office of the Federal board in Kansas City immediately on the passage of the bills. Haworth said he had no information as to whether the Federal funds would be released immediately or whether the board would insist on the completion of the legislation through its signature by the Governor.

Can't Reach Governor Till Monday.
The bills in their final, enrolled form cannot reach Gov. Stark before Monday afternoon, according to legislative officials. The bills, after their enrollment, must be signed by the governor within two hours, in open session, before they can be sent to the Governor for his signature. Both the Senate and House adjourned until 3 p. m. Monday after taking final action on the bills today. Gov. Stark is away from the capital and is expected to return Monday.

The bills were approved by the Federal Board in the form they were first passed by the Senate, and while there have been some minor amendments since that time, Senator Allen McReynolds, chairman of the Senate Social Security Committee, said he was of the opinion that they met the Federal requirements in detail. It is understood that copies of the bills will have to be sent to the Federal board in Washington for final study and approval before the funds will be released.

The bills give the State commission sole authority to pass on the eligibility of all applicants for pensions, and the sole power to determine the amount of pension. The bills specifically declare the question of need to be the determining factor in deciding eligibility. Limitation on Courts.
The bill denies the courts power to reverse decisions of the commission, the only authority resting in the light of the courts to decide whether an applicant has had a fair hearing.

It will be possible for the commission to purge the rolls of ineligible, which has been to a considerable extent impossible under the old law because of interpretations placed on the courts which in several instances have ordered the commission to restore persons whose names had been removed from the rolls. The completion of the legislation ends a long fight in which politicians-legislators sought to include in the bills provisions which would have opened the gates for padding the rolls. While it was known that Federal money would not be released under a law containing those provisions, the fight was kept up for political effect "back home."

After a record for political home consumption had been made by these legislators, most of them voted for the bill.

HONGKONG, March 3.—Pan-American Airways' new 40-ton, 74-passenger clipper today completed its maiden trans-Pacific flight, arriving here on the final leg from Manila. It carried mail, express and 23 persons, all members of the staffs of Pan-American Airways or the Boeing and Wright companies. Gandhi on Hunger Strike Against a Native Ruler Seeks Administrative Reforms in Rajkot—Two Killed at Lucknow in Hindu-Moslem Rioting.

By the Associated Press.

RAJKOT, India, March 3.—Mohandas K. Gandhi sipped a cup of hot goat's milk today and then swore food in a hunger strike to obtain administrative reforms for the inhabitants of the tiny state of Rajkot.

He said it would be a "fast unto death" unless the native ruler, Thakore Saheb Shri Dharmendra-sinhji, gave the people "a voice in the government."

A crowd watched Gandhi's final preparations for the hunger strike, which recalled his "unconditional and irrevocable" three-day fast of May, 1932, on behalf of India's untouchable lower caste. The rigors of the 1933 fast and other similar self-denials had left Gandhi emaciated and shrunken. He had disregarded his failing health, however, to push his fight with the ruler of Rajkot, whom Gandhi called "my son." He said he hoped by "self-suffering" to "evolve his (the ruler's) best nature."

In three other fasts he went without food for six days in September, 1932; a week in August, 1933, and a week in August, 1934. Gandhi chatted cheerfully with his followers as he began another important day in his demonstration career. After his usual routine of massages and ablutions, he looked at his mail.

Just before noon he took his last meal—whole wheat bread, tomatoes, cooked vegetables and oranges and finally a cup of hot goat's milk. Gandhi accused Thakore Saheb of breaking a promise to introduce democratic reforms in Rajkot. An hour and one-half after Gandhi started fasting the native ruler maintained his stand in a letter to the nationalist leader.

Gandhi tossed it aside with the remark that "it merely is adding fuel to the flames."

Troops and Police Called Out in Hindu-Moslem Rioting.

By the Associated Press.

LUCKNOW, India, March 3.—Two persons were killed in Lucknow and shops were looted and fired today in Hindu-Moslem rioting which caused troops and police to be ordered out in several cities of the United Provinces.

The two deaths, by shooting, occurred in the Etah district of Lucknow where armed police patrolled the streets.

Troops were rushed from Bareilly to Budhan, 125 miles north of the capital, to restore order.

Rioting occurred when Hindus clashed with Moslems who were celebrating Mohurru, a sacred feast day.

Troops were ordered to duty at Amritsar, where one person was killed and 16 were injured yesterday.

NYE WARNS SIX STEPS MAY CARRY U. S. INTO A WAR

Building Military Machine for Foreigners, Secret Trades, Gaum Plan Are Included.

HOUSE PASSES ARMY APPROPRIATION BILL

Sends $499,000,000 Measure, Carrying Funds for Air Corps Expansion, to the Senate.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—The Senate heard a warning today from Senator Nye (Rep., North Dakota), that it must keep a close check on developments in American foreign policy lest some propaganda campaign carry the nation to war.

Discussing the administration's $358,000,000 army expansion bill as it neared a vote, Nye outlined a half dozen steps he said might fit in a pattern of events leading to conflict.

The House, with almost unprecedented unanimity and speed, passed and sent to the Senate today a $499,000,000 army appropriation bill, carrying funds to start a proposed expansion of the air corps.

No Amendments Made.

There was no record vote and not a single amendment was offered to the huge supply bill, carrying the largest army appropriation in more than 10 years.

In addition to funds to run the army for the year starting July 1, the bill also will permit the purchase of 784 new airplanes, mostly of combat types.

Only a handful of members was on the floor when the bill went through and, although Representative Miller (Rep., Connecticut), sought to offer an amendment, he was blocked by a single objection on the ground he was too late. The House did not learn what his amendment was, for it was not even read.

Representative Collins (Dem., Mississippi), former critic of War Department policies, told the House that if reports of Germany's tremendous air power were true, United States military and naval attaches abroad have been "asleep on the job" and should be eliminated.

Collins was discussing the army appropriation bill when he declared that as late as last October the "alleged astonishing superiority" of Germany's air forces was unknown to this Government.

A Reversal in 12 Months.

"In God's name," he shouted, "what have these attaches been doing? In the space of less than 12 months, unknown to them, a complete reversal of the picture has taken place."

Asserting he was disposed to doubt the accuracy of reports on air strength, Collins declared the House Military Committee might well summon the attaches involved and question them on the subject.

Collins said that on the basis of confidential information furnished last year by the intelligence office of the chief of naval operations, the committee told the House the United States excelled any other Power in naval aviation.

Power in naval aviation, he said, stood at the standpoint of planes on hand, ordered or appropriated for this country was second only to the British Empire.

Nye Reads Statement.

"Perhaps a first work will be to have us build our military machine ready for the service of foreigners," Nye read from a prepared statement to listening colleagues in the Senate.

"The second work is to have us secretly trade and deal with a foreign empire."

"The third is to ask us to offend Japan by an air base at Guam."

"The fourth will be to continue the stabilization fund so that men may strengthen 'democracies' and flaunt so-called dictatorships on the continent of Europe."

"The fifth will be the direction of foreign credits into the channels of politically orthodox traders."

"Then will come the open insults to Powers now friendly, and the cheap machinations calculated to secure insults to our flag or to our citizens."

Speeches Delay Vote.

Nye's treatise, together with other speeches, including one yesterday by Senator Johnson (Rep., California), delayed for a time a Senate vote on the bill.

Although everyone conceded eventual approval of the defense measure, by a wide margin, Dem. senators were having a hard time in trying to end floor discussion.

Even Senator Johnson, who criticized administration foreign policy yesterday in a speech reminiscent of his attacks on the League of Nations, said he was supporting the major provisions of the army bill. After Senator Logan (Dem., Kentucky), had declared that American neutrality legislation had encouraged Germany, Italy and Japan, Johnson rose and faced his colleagues.

Favorite Word of League.

Urging Senators to guard against "insidious propaganda" which might lead to war, he read with obvious disapproval President Roosevelt's recent statement that there were methods short of war in combating aggressor nations.

His voice rising, Johnson cried: "That could mean only one thing: Sanctions! Sanctions! The favorite word of the League of Nations people, some of whom even yet infest this Government."

"Why, I'd rather see my grandson go out with a gun on his shoulder and take his chances and fight than impose sanctions on the halt, the lame and the blind, on the helpless, some of whom even yet infest this Government."

Laying down a two-point foreign policy, which he said would have the thoroughgoing support of the public, he declared in a rising voice:

"First, America wants no war. America will fight to defend herself, but America wants no war."

"And secondly, America will have no entangling alliances; not only that, but America will have no commitments, no understandings or agreements by which we may be taken into the vortex of a war, or by which we might be taken into the disputes of Europe."

Clark Rebukes Ickes.

Senator Clark (Dem., Missouri), another critic of administration views on foreign affairs, entered the debate to assist the Secretary of the Interior Ickes had indulged in "billingsgate" against some nations with which the United States is at peace.

He also contended that Chairman Pittman (Dem., Nevada), of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, had made provocative statements. Without mentioning Senator Logan's name, he took issue with a statement by Logan that he would be willing to see American youths go to war before he would see established here a form of government such as Germany has.

"When we hear a Senator respected by everyone in this body rise here, as he did today," Clark said, "and with great intrepidity ride through blood up to his bridle in the chamber and gallantly say he was not afraid to send an American boy to die in foreign fields—if that statement and the succession of statements were not challenged in this body, would not this nation in this world be entitled to take them at the unvarnished opinion of the American people?"

SECOND FIRM FINED $1000 FOR VIOLATING WAGE LAW

New England Shoe Concern's Treasurer Also Assesses for Not Paying 25-Cent-an-Hour Minimum.

BOSTON, March 3.—After pleading guilty of violating the Wage-Hour Act, the Gerber Shoe Co. of Lawrence, Mass., and Nathan Gerber, its treasurer and general manager, were fined $1000 each today in United States District Court. This completed the Government's second successful prosecution under the law.

The company and Gerber pleaded guilty of failure to pay the minimum wage of 25 cents an hour, falsification of records, failure to keep required records and placing goods produced under those conditions in interstate commerce.

Fines of $1000 were imposed on each count, but payment was suspended on all but one. The company agreed to make restitution to underpaid employees.

The first criminal prosecution under the act ended a few days ago after guilty pleas and an offer to make restitution were received from the Brown Contract Stitching, Inc., of Lawrence, and fines were imposed totaling $1500.

NEW POPE MAKES RADIO APPEAL TO WORLD FOR PEACE

chooses, to revive the old custom of going through Rome in state to take formal possession of papal properties outside the Vatican walls.

Confers With State Official.

The Pope's primary interest in diplomatic affairs was demonstrated this morning by his receiving Mgr. Giovanni Batista Montini, Assistant Secretary of State for Ordinary Affairs. He was believed to have given instructions for notifying the diplomatic corps of the coronation.

Taking on his shoulders the burden which for eight years he helped his predecessor, Pius XI, to bear, the new Pope alone was to determine papal policy, and only he could speak authoritatively on his intentions.

Some of his intimates, however, predicted that on the basis of his attitude in the past, Pius XII would work to better relations with countries, such as Germany, where they have been troubled.

"Calmness in conduct and actions in dealing with the church's internal and international relations, so as to better various situations" was the description of the Pope's likely attitude from one Vatican source.

Toward Nazi Germany's treatment of Catholics, this informant said, the Pope was expected to show "no weakness but an attitude of watchful waiting for betterment of conditions."

Since he once was papal nuncio to Berlin, negotiated the concordat of 1933 with Nazi Germany, the 63-year-old Pontiff was regarded as particularly qualified to deal with that situation.

Retires to His Old Cell.

The Pope, after this election yesterday and his appearance on the balcony of St. Peter's to give his benediction to the crowds and receive their homage, retired last night to the cell which had been his apartment during the years he was close servant of the late Pius XI.

The 2824 pontiff, spiritual ruler of 331,500,000 Catholics, faced perhaps the most troubled days since the World War. Prelates noted with satisfaction that he was comparatively young, considerably below the average age of Cardinals.

Thin and of slight build, he nevertheless enjoys good health. His paternal grandfather, a high functionary of the Vatican, died at the age of 100 in 1902. His father also lived beyond the "three score and 10."

His own Catholic Italy posed a delicate situation. Racial laws, particularly those affecting marriage, which Pius XI had said "wounded" the Concordat, still were on the Fascist books.

Friction between Fascists and Catholic Action was a fresh memory in the minds of Italians. Although not a religious controversy, the bad relations between France and Italy are known to be a source of concern to the Pope.

Other Side of Picture.

On the other hand, however, the Spanish war, which saddened his predecessor, appeared to be about over.

He entered his reign on an obviously popular note given him by rarely equalled speed.

He had the prospect of full support by Catholics in the United States, whose Government repeatedly has demonstrated friendliness.

As Cardinal, the Pope lunched with President Roosevelt two years ago on his visit to the United States. Pius XI had hoped to resume diplomatic relations with the United States, but he died before concrete results were obtained.

The United States and the Vatican were linked diplomatically from 1848 to 1867, when the legation was closed by Congress. Most other nations have envoys accredited to the Holy See.

Italian press dispatches showed favorable reaction from many countries, including England, France, Switzerland, Ireland, Rumania, the United States and Hungary.

Text of New Pope's Radio Speech

By the Associated Press.

FOLLOWING is the English translation from an official Italian translation of the Latin text of the address broadcast to the world today by Pope Pius XII:

As most profound emotion fills our spirit and we feel ourselves as though overwhelmed before the tremendous responsibility to which Divine Providence in its inscrutable designs has called us, we feel it necessary to make known our thoughts immediately to all. Thus these paternal words.

First of all with particular affection, we give our paternal embrace to the very beloved Cardinals of the Sacred College whose piety, virtue and eminent gifts of mind we know by long association; then we salute with special and every one of these venerable brothers of the episcopate, at the same time we bless the priests and nuns, those who work to spread the kingdom of Christ through missions or who collaborate with the apostolic hierarchy under the guidance of Bishops in the file of Catholic Action and, finally, all our sons throughout the world, especially those who suffer in poverty and pain.

Many very special graces of heaven descend copiously on each and every one of these. But in this solemn moment our thoughts run also to all those who are outside the church, to those who will be pleased to know that the Pope raises for them to the highest as greatest God prayers and wishes for every good.

To this paternal message we wish to add hope and an appeal for peace. We mean that peace which our predecessor of pious memory recommended to men with such insistence and invokes with such ardent prayers and for which he offered his life to God; that peace, sublime describe him as an austere, self-denying type of loyal follower himself and capable of inspiring great devotion among subordinates.

At the same time he is a widely traveled man, famed as a scholar and linguist. His demure and dignified was without affectation. Rome papers stressed his unobtrusive charities.

Among the Pope's first acts will be to compose his court, naming his Camerlengo and Secretary of State, his private gentlemen-in-waiting and other high functionaries.

Soon after his coronation he was expected to leave the Vatican to take possession of his basilica, which is St. John Lateran.

Pietro Cardinal Fumasoni-Biondi, who served as apostolic delegate to the United States for 10 years, was among the Cardinals mentioned prominently for the post of Vatican secretary of state.

Others mentioned were Luigi Cardinal Maglione, former Nuncio to Paris, and Federico Cardinal Tedeschini, former Nuncio to Madrid.

Cardinal Fumasoni-Biondi was considered to have an excellent chance because of the esteem in which he is held as a diplomat and for his work as prefect of the Congregation for the Propagation of the Faith.

Cardinal Maglione was 62 years old today, one year younger than the new Pope. Cardinal Fumasoni-Biondi is 66 and Cardinal Tedeschini 65.

The order stated the company had violated the Wagner Act, encouraging the Employees' Protective Association in its fight from an employee representative in 1937. The board was an intervenor in the case before Lohm, its officers de facto company domination or influence.

Complaints Reviewed.

After reviewing at length testimony in regard to the internal complaints, the board there was insufficient evidence warrant an order for reinstatement of those discharged or for back pay in instances where salaries had been cut.

The company's contentions, futing the discrimination actions, were, in the main, accepted by the board. The board found that the company had been justly fired fighting and another for slow production and spoiling meat cuts. The firm said another fired for his threats of violence fellow employees who had refused to join the union.

No Interference Allowed.

In the part of the order relating to the participation of the company in unfair labor practices, the board ordered the packing concern not to interfere with or dominate any self-organization, adding the must engage in collective bargaining with employee representatives.

When testifying at the hearing, M. Z. Irish, manager of the firm, said his first meeting with a representative was on June 24, three days after the CIO had down the plant by a "hold out" by the workers.

Prior to this time, Irish said, the Employees' Protective association had showed satisfaction it represented 1196 of approximately 1500 employees. It was recognized as the bargaining agency.

LIFE INSURANCE TAX BILL OFFERED IN STATE

Measure to Extend Inheritance Levies Also Includes Jointly Held Property.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 3.—Proceeds of life insurance policies and transfers to survivors of property held jointly, or in a joint account, would be made subject to the State inheritance tax, under a bill introduced in the House today by Representative Paul K. Gibbons of Knox County.

Gibbons' bill also would increase the inheritance tax rates on property passing to beneficiaries who are alien non-residents of the United States, from the present graduated scale of 1 to 5 per cent, to a new graduated scale of 10 to 20 per cent, the rate depending upon the degree of relationship of the beneficiary to the deceased.

Life insurance is not taxable under the present Missouri inheritance tax law. The bill provides that life insurance, for the purpose of inheritance taxes, shall be considered a part of the deceased's estate.

Gibbons had no estimate of the additional inheritance tax collections that would result, under the provisions of the bill.

N. L. R. B. REVERSED FINDINGS AGAIN

SWIFT & CO. PL

Rejects Recommendation of Trial Examiner in Union Case at Nat Stockyards.

'COMPANY' UNION HAS BEEN DROPPED

Charges Concern Fired and Cut Pay for Organization Activities Dismissed on Review.

The National Labor Relations Board at Washington, in a final order today, reversed the recommendations of its trial examiner dismissing charges that Swift & Co. had fired several men and the pay of others for union activities at the firm's National stockyards plant.

Examiner: Albert L. Lohm conducted a hearing last at the Federal Building in St. Louis, on complaint of Local 1 of the CIO United Packing Workers Industrial Union, who demanded reinstatement of five members with back pay and pension for pay losses of 18 months.

The order is the first in St. Louis in which the NLRB has reversed a hearing last at the Federal Building in St. Louis, on complaint of Local 1 of the CIO United Packing Workers Industrial Union, who demanded reinstatement of five members with back pay and pension for pay losses of 18 months.

Case of "Company Union"

The board followed Lohm's recommendation in another part ordering the firm to cease desist from encouraging and financial assistance to the employees' Protective Association, which the CIO to be a company union.

In this case the board said the company brought about voluntary disunion of the association since it made his report, last May 2, for this reason no order for establishment of the organization was to be issued.

The order stated the company had violated the Wagner Act, encouraging the Employees' Protective Association in its fight from an employee representative in 1937. The board was an intervenor in the case before Lohm, its officers de facto company domination or influence.

Complaints Reviewed.

After reviewing at length testimony in regard to the internal complaints, the board there was insufficient evidence warrant an order for reinstatement of those discharged or for back pay in instances where salaries had been cut.

The company's contentions, futing the discrimination actions, were, in the main, accepted by the board. The board found that the company had been justly fired fighting and another for slow production and spoiling meat cuts. The firm said another fired for his threats of violence fellow employees who had refused to join the union.

No Interference Allowed.

In the part of the order relating to the participation of the company in unfair labor practices, the board ordered the packing concern not to interfere with or dominate any self-organization, adding the must engage in collective bargaining with employee representatives.

When testifying at the hearing, M. Z. Irish, manager of the firm, said his first meeting with a representative was on June 24, three days after the CIO had down the plant by a "hold out" by the workers.

Prior to this time, Irish said, the Employees' Protective association had showed satisfaction it represented 1196 of approximately 1500 employees. It was recognized as the bargaining agency.

LIFE INSURANCE TAX BILL OFFERED IN STATE

Measure to Extend Inheritance Levies Also Includes Jointly Held Property.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, March 3.—
Proceeds of life insurance policies and transfers to survivors of property held jointly, or in a joint account, would be made subject to the State inheritance tax, under a bill introduced in the House today by Representative Paul K. Gibbons of Knox County.

Gibbons' bill also would increase the inheritance tax rates on property passing to beneficiaries who are alien non-residents of the United States, from the present graduated scale of 1 to 5 per cent, to a new graduated scale of 10 to 20 per cent, the rate depending upon the degree of relationship of the beneficiary to the decedent.

Life insurance is not taxable under the present Missouri inheritance tax law. The bill provides that life insurance, for the purpose of inheritance taxes, shall be considered a part of the decedent's estate.

Gibbons had no estimate of the additional inheritance tax collections that would result, under the provisions of the bill.

N. L. R. B. REVERSES FINDINGS AGAINST SWIFT & CO. PLANT

Rejects Recommendations of Trial Examiner in CIO Union Case at National Stockyards.

'COMPANY' UNION HAS BEEN DROPPED

Charges Concern Fired Men and Cut Pay for Organization Activities Dismissed
on Review.

The National Labor Relations Board at Washington, in a final order today, reversed the recommendations of its trial examiner by dismissing charges that Swift & Co. had fired several men and cut
the pay of others for union activities at the firm's National Stockyards plant.

Examiner Albert L. Lohm, who conducted a hearing last March at the Federal Building in East St.
Louis, on complaint of Local 530
of the CIO United Packing House Workers' Industrial Union, had recommended reinstatement of five CIO
members with back pay and compensation for pay losses of 11 others.

The order is the first in St. Louis in which the NLRB has made a clean sweep of all discharge cases listed in an unfair labor practice complaint contrary to the examiner's findings. In several instances,
however, the board has dismissed
parts of complaints contrary to recommendations of the examiners.

Case of "Company Union."

The board followed Lohm's recommendation in another phase by ordering the firm to cease and desist from encouraging and lending financial assistance to the Employees' Protective Association, alleged by the CIO to be a "company union." In this connection the board said the company had brought about voluntary dissolution of the association since Lohm made his report, last May 2, and for this reason no order for disestablishment of the organization would be issued.

The order stated the company had violated the Wagner Act by encouraging the Employees' Protective Association in its transition from an employee representation group in 1937. The association was an intervenor in the hearing before Lohm, its officers denying company domination or influence.

Complaints Reviewed.

After reviewing at length the testimony in regard to the individual complainants, the board said
there was insufficient evidence to warrant an order for reinstatement of those discharged or for back pay in instances where salaries had been cut.

The company's contentions in refuting the discrimination allegations, were, in the main, accepted by the board. The board found one man had been justly fired for fighting, and another for slowing up production and spoiling meat products. The firm said another was fired for his threats of violence to fellow employees who had refused to join the union.

No Interference Allowed.

In the part of the order relating to the participation of the company
in union affairs, the board directed the packing concern not to interfere with or dominate any union.
It further ordered the firm not to intimidate employees in their rights to self-organization, adding that it must engage in collective bargaining with employee representatives.

When testifying at the hearing,
M. Z. Irish, manager of the plant,
said his first meeting with a CIO
representative was on June 24, 1937,
three days after the CIO had shut down the plant by a "holiday," called by the union to recruit members. Prior to this time, Irish said, the Employees' Protective Association had showed satisfactory evidence it represented 1196 of the approximately 1500 employees, and it was recognized as the bargaining agency.

Fatal Halifax Hotel Fire

Firemen rescuing guests from the Queen Hotel fire yesterday.

250,000, of which the FHA loan represents about 80 per cent.

However, the estimated construction cost stated by the firm when a building permit was obtained at the office of Assessor Martin L.
Neaf of St. Louis County, Jan.
21, was $2,187,807.

The Assessor has no control over building operations but the law the estimated cost must be stated to provide him with a basis for assessment of valuation
for tax purposes.

27 Buildings Planned.

Plans for Lucas-Hunt Village, as filed with the Assessor, call for erection of 27 three-story apartment buildings on the site which is three-quarters of a mile north of Natural Bridge road. Eight buildings will be 12-family four-room apartments, 11 will be 24-family four-room apartments and eight 30-family three-room apartments.

Architectural design and interior arrangements generally are similar to those of the 354-family Manhasset Village, except that the latter consists of only seven buildings, compared with the 27 planned in Lucas-Hunt.

The dominant feature of both groups is the presence of only one interior stairway for each unit of six apartments. This feature at Manhasset is being looked into by County Prosecuting Attorney Stanley Wallace to determine whether the State law, calling for fireproof
fire escapes in apartment houses
of three stories or more, in addition to stairways, is being complied with.

The stairways at Lucas-Hunt, as indicated in the plans, are of fireproof construction, inclosed in eight-inch tile walls on eight-inch brick foundations. Floors and walls separating rooms inside apartments are of wood.

Specifications for Walls.

Walls dividing the various apartments also are to be of eight-inch tile, on 12½-inch brick foundations. Exterior bearing walls are of eight-inch tile with four-inch brick facing, on 12½-inch brick foundations.

Footings under walls are to be of concrete, 12 inches deep, and 24 inches wide under exterior bearing walls and 16 inches wide under interior partition walls. The plans indicate that at some points,
where present elevations at certain buildings are to be raised by filling in with soil, the footings will extend only about eight inches below the present ground level.

Plans call for 2-by-8 inch floor joists for 11-foot, 4-inch spans, and 2-by-10 inch joists for 15-foot, 7-inch spans, but in some cases the 2-by-10 joists will be notched out two inches to meet floor levels,
leaving the joists with bearing strength of 2-by-8's.

The joists will rest on steel I-beams running horizontally down
the middle of each building and supported by vertical H-beams.

Of the 100 six-family units, 68
will have no basements, except under stairways. The remaining 32 units will be excavated to make way for boiler rooms, janitors' quarters and playrooms for children.

Eight Groups of Garages.

There will be eight groups of garages, with space for 431 automobiles. Garage buildings, placed at distances ranging up from 30 feet
from apartments, will be of frame, with end walls of tile. Partitions separating car spaces will be of wire screen.

Bathrooms and kitchens will be equipped with radiators, instead of exposed pipes running vertically, as at Manhasset. There will be no incinerators, as at Manhasset
but instead a service door adjoining the entrance to each apartment.

All flat roof units are to have scuttles or openings to the roof and gable and hip roof units are to have scuttles leading to attic spaces with openings to the masonry dividing walls, the plans state.
Also, all masonry dividing walls, including those of stairways, will

HALIFAX HOTEL RUINS TOO HOT FOR SEARCH

Seven Bodies Found, but 25
Persons Are Still Missing
After Nova Scotia Fire.

By Canadian Press.
HALIFAX, Nova Scotia, March
3.—Firemen dug into ice-coated ruins of the Queen Hotel today to determine the loss of life in the early morning fire yesterday which trapped sleeping guests as it swept through the hotel and destroyed
two adjoining structures.

Police said 25 persons were missing and that even more may have been killed. Seven unidentified bodies were found in the small section of the hotel left standing.

In hospitals were 20 injured, including two firemen. The fire forced many guests to jump from windows of the wood and stucco hotel.

The hotel register, only exact record of the hotel's guests, was buried in a safe under tons of debris.

Nova Scotia Fire Marshal J. A.
Rudland began an inquiry into the origin of the blaze, which caused damage estimated at $600,000. Hotel employees were questioned last night, but their statements were not disclosed.

Heaviest loss of life was indicated in the north section of the hotel, which collapsed after four men were seen trying to escape across the roof. The ruins of this section were still too hot to be searched.

A demand for a thorough investigation of the tragedy was made in the Nova Scotia Legislature yesterday by Conservative Leader
Percy Black. The House adjourned for the day out of respect to the victims.

$3000 LAWSUIT OUTGROWTH OF CO-OPERATIVE TRAILER TRIP

Driver Charges Woman Who Owned Auto Caused His Arrest
After Disagreement in Party.

Suit for $3000 damages was filed in Circuit Court today against Miss Evelyn Ray, 117A North Ninth street, by C. S. Marsoff of Pinckneyville, Ill., who alleged that she caused his arrest without grounds
in Tampa, Fla., on Jan. 26.

The petition stated that Marsoff,
his wife and Miss Ray were making a trip through Florida and Louisiana in Miss Ray's automobile and trailer, under an arrangement whereby Marsoff was to do the driving and pay one-third of the expenses, with Miss Ray paying the other two-thirds.

After a disagreement among members of the party, the petition stated, Miss Ray ordered that they return to St. Louis, and as they were driving through Tampa, she kept shouting that she was being kidnaped. As a result, the suit charged, Marsoff was arrested by Tampa police and held for three hours.

20 HURT IN CLASH OF A. F. OF L.-CIO LUMBER WORKERS

Fist Fights Extend Through Principal Street at Westwood, Cal.—CIO Headquarters Wrecked.

By the Associated Press.
WESTWOOD, Cal., March 3.—
About 20 lumber workers were injured here yesterday in clashes between members of CIO and of the American Federation of Labor.
Fist fights took place throughout
the length of the principal street.

Last night several hundred lumber handymen stormed into a frame building erected recently as CIO
headquarters, and demolished it.
When they withdrew only the foundations remained.

Eighteen highway patrolmen
were hurried here by Raymond Cato, chief of the patrol, but they arrived after the rioters had dispersed.

Three arrests were made by Constantine Al Bangle, a Womak, whom Bangle said was a "CIO organizer from Klamath Falls, Ore." He was arrested on a charge of inciting a riot. Jack Scott was arrested accused of using a hammer
as a weapon. His wife was detained, but later released, on a charge of resisting an officer.

The trouble started after a Justice Court hearing of charges of disturbing the peace, placed against two A. F. of L. and two CIO unionists.

More than 150 men gathered outside the courtroom and when the hearing was continued until Monday, a fist fight started. The fighting spread quickly.

Bangle and a Deputy Sheriff were the only officers here when the trouble started. They appealed to Sheriff Johnson at San Francisco for help. Johnson responded immediately and asked Cato to send help.

When Sheriff Johnson and his deputies arrived, more than 300 men had gathered in front of CIO headquarters. They had all appointments to see the Rev. Harry B. Crimmins, S. J., president of the university, and the Rev. Alphonse M. Schwitala, S. J., dean of the medical school.

Dr. Fleisher was dismissed, university authorities said, because of his association with the sponsors of a lecture in 1937 by Michael O'Flanagan, an unfrocked priest who spoke in behalf of the Loyalist cause in Spain.

Four Negro families were routed
from their homes early today when fire destroyed the roof of a vacant
two-story frame dwelling at 1124

spread to the roofs of three adjoining structures. Nobody was injured.

Fire Chief Lawrence Cornoyer estimated the loss at $310. The damage was slight to the other buildings, at 1118, 1120 and 1126.
Policemen said the house at 1124

City Clerks Break Down And Admit They Never Loaf

Replies to Questionnaires in Governmental Survey Contradict Notion That Public Employees Occasionally Rest.

Anyone with a notion that clerks and officials at City Hall, like clerks and executives in any office, occasionally loaf a little, had better change his mind. Documentary proof to the contrary is rapidly being gathered by the clerks and officials themselves.

They are filling out questionnaires sent out by the Governmental Research Institute, which has been hired for $40,000 to find out just what everyone does at the hall. If the answers on the questionnaires are to be believed,
everybody does everything.

Excise Commissioner Lawrence McDaniel, who inspects liquor as well as liquor licenses, reported that his office hours are only 9 a.
m. to 12 noon, but added that he is "constantly on the job from 8 o'clock in the morning to 4 o'clock the next morning." All this while he is answering questions and giving advice.

One of the department heads
glancing at the questionnaire filled out by one of his secretaries, found she had reported that in her department she made out ALL the reports and did ALL the stenog-raphic work. "I wonder what the other stenographers do?" he asked.

Howard Ferguson, in charge of the survey for the institute, is unimpressed by all this zeal. "I've done this sort of thing 10 years,"
he told a Post-Dispatch reporter,
"and I can spot those who exaggerate right off. I won't miss more than one out of 20."

This is just the beginning anyway. The questionnaires are merely to get some basic information.
Later we go through all the individual departments ourselves,
and then we find out how much work is being done."

ALDERMEN TO RETURN PASSES TO WRESTLING, BOXING SHOWS

Anonymous Resolution Directs Clerk
to Send Tickets Back to Sports Promoters.

A resolution directing the clerk of the Board of Aldermen to return to boxing and wrestling promoters all tickets sent him for distribution
among members was adopted today
by unanimous vote of the board.
The resolution, introduced by Alderman Bernard J. Fitzsimmons, resulted from the recent controversy of Alderman Joseph B.
Schweppé, chairman of the City Athletic Commission, and promoters who said his opposition had been aroused by refusal of Promoter Larry Atkins to grant his request for 70 free ringside seats to a boxing show last December.

A bill to authorize trustees of the Bryan Mullany Immigrant Relief Fund to sell 36 pieces of non-incomproducing property, with approval of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment and the chairman of the board's Public Welfare Committee, within the next five years,
was introduced by Alderman Lawrence P. Walsh. Alderman Walter H. Toberman introduced a bill appropriating $50,000 to supplement funds available for purchase of materials for WPA projects.

It was announced no bills would be introduced after the board's next meeting, March 18, and sine die adjournment was set for April 8.

MOTORCYCLE POLICEMAN BADLY HURT IN COLLISION

Joseph Lischko Jr., a traffic policeman, was severely injured yesterday afternoon when his motorcycle collided with an automobile
on Lafayette avenue at Nicholson place.

An emergency operation was performed this morning at City Hospi-skull and a blood transfusion was ordered. He also suffered internal injuries and fractures of the right arm and left wrist.

Lischko was riding eastward behind a street car, and the automobile, driven by Jonathan Wislon,

proaching from the opposite direction. Wislon said he started to make a left turn after waiting for the street car to go by, and Lischko

THREE AT CHARLESTON SUSPENDED BY WPA

Action Taken "Several Weeks Ago," Headquarters at Chicago Announces.

CHARLESTON, Mo., March 3.—It became known here yesterday through an announcement by Bruce Uthus, regional WPA director, at Chicago, that three Mississippi County project superintendents, John W. Hibbs, Paul D. Davis and Finley S. Rafferty, have been under suspension for several weeks "without prejudice" pending an investigation into their actions and that two $125 checks for Davis have been held up and a hold order issued against Hibbs' salary. No attachment was made on money due Rafferty, according to the announcement.

The Government has demanded restitution to the value of materials allegedly misused by the officials, and Uthus said the suspensions would be made permanent if the charges are maintained.

According to Matthew Murray,

State WPA administrator, the suspensions are in connection with alleged improper use of WPA men and materials in the construction of a railroad spur to the factory at Charleston of the Brown Shoe Co. of St. Louis and installation of a sewer and water line to the factory, which was the gift of Charleston to the company. The three men suspended, he said, were timekeepers on the work, and were individually responsible to the WPA administration.

The present suspensions follow those last August of three project heads on the work, James Brown of Charleston, who was in charge of all WPA undertakings for the county; Leon Groves of Sikeston, who was engineer in charge of projects in this and several other counties; and Charles L. Blanton Jr. of Sikeston, who was assistant administrator for the district with headquarters at Farmington, supervising activities in 32 Southeast Missouri counties.

ANTI-NEGRIN MEN REPORTED SEEKING NEW GOVERNMENT

Nationalists Say Dissident Republicans in Madrid
Have Formed Faction
Opposed to Premier.

By the Associated Press.
AVILA, Spain, March 3.—The Spanish Nationalists have received reports that Republican political leaders opposed to Premier Juan Negrin are attempting to form a new government in Madrid.

The Nationalists regard this situation as holding the possibility of unconditional surrender Franco has demanded as an alternative to a Nationalist offensive against the Madrid-Valencia-Alicante zone.

The leaders of the so-called Republican dissidents are said to be opposed to Communists, which form much of Negrin's support, and to represent a large part of Madrid's population which Nationalists say has been calling for "bread or surrender."

The Nationalists see another immediate sign of Republican collapse—a report of mass desertions despite stringent control to prevent the flight of Madrid residents to Nationalist siege lines half-way around the city.

Nationalist officers say hundreds of persons have run the fire of Republican machine guns to reach Nationalist lines across no-man's land areas in University City, Parque del Oeste and Casa del Campo.

Some of the refugees are said to have swum the Manzanares River, while others fought their way through barbed wire. Nationalist officers say the refugees reported many persons were dying of starvation in Madrid and garbage cans were being searched for food.

Jose Maria Alfaro, one of the founders of the powerful Falange party, is said to have been among those escaping from the beleaguered capital.

Britain Expected to Send Trade Mission to Franco's Spain.
LONDON, March 3.—Britain is expected to dispatch a trade mission shortly to Nationalist Spain in a hurried attempt to recapture commercial and political advantages now enjoyed by Italy and Germany.

Now that Britain and France have recognized the nationalist administration as the legal government, continuation of the Spanish civil war only embarrasses their program. Both hope for an end soon to the resistance offered by the Spanish republicans under Premier Juan Negrin.

Nationalist Generalissimo Francisco Franco needs reconstruction funds. Italy and Germany gave him soldiers and munitions. Britain and France have given him recognition and money supposedly is coming up.

The principal problem for restoration of commercial relations is for British merchants to get their money out of Spain. It is estimated $5,000,000 (about $25,000,000) was owed to Britain at the outbreak of the war.

Britain expects the nationalists to take over those obligations or arrange some sort of barter agreement to pay off in Spanish products.

If the nationalists agree to relax their strict import licensing system and loosen currencies, the British see their way to provide coal, iron, textiles, machinery, railway rolling stock and other manufactured goods to the new Spain.

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's appeasement program has been swerved considerably to trade channels in an effort to attain the goal of general European settlement.

R. S. Hudson, secretary of the overseas trade department, who is leaving soon for a series of trade talks in Berlin, Moscow and other Baltic capitals, declared last night: "We are reverting to our old position of influence which we ought never to have abandoned."

The British hailed France's selection of yesterday of 82-year-old Marshal Henri Philippe Petain as Ambassador to nationalist Spain. The latest name mentioned in speculation over Britain's Ambassador to Burgos is that of Sir Maurice Peterson, Ambassador to Iran.

Franco Exempts Church Property From Taxation.
By the Associated Press.

BURGOS, March 3.—The Nationalist Government of Generalissimo Francisco Franco today decreed all Church property in Spain exempt from taxation.

He rewarded six Nationalist Brigadier-Generals for service in the Catalan campaign by promoting them to the rank of Division (Major) Generals. Those advanced were Jose Moscardo, Miguel Aranda, Ricardo Serrador, Eladio Alvarez Arenas, Jose Solchaga and Gen. Canovas.

TWO MEN ELECTROCUTED IN KENTUCKY FOR MURDER

Both Admitted Killing Old Man and Wife and Burning Their Bodies.

EDDYVILLE, Ky., March 3.—Bonnie Griffin, 23 years old, and Arnold Powell, 22, convicted of murdering an old man and his wife in Estill County and burning the bodies, were electrocuted at Western Kentucky penitentiary early today.

Warden Jesse Buchanan said the men admitted the crime and went quietly to the electric chair.

VISITORS AT WORLD FAIRS WARNED TO BEWARE OF GOUT

Specialist Tells Academy of Medicine Wave of Arthritis Accompanied Chicago Exposition.

NEW YORK, March 3.—Dr. Philip S. Hensch warned prospective tourists to New York's World's Fair and San Francisco's Golden Gate Exposition today to beware of the gout.

Expositions are potent provocatives of gout," said Dr. Hensch, of the Mayo Clinic at Rochester, Minn., "and it is probable that many a visitor will develop that most severe form of exposition feat, namely, acute gouty arthritis."

He blamed excessive eating and drinking and long walking and exposure.

Speaking to the Academy of Medicine, Dr. Hensch said he based his prediction on a gout wave which accompanied the Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago in 1933 and 1934.

Andrews to Ask Congress
Remove White Collar Group
From Regulations.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Administrator Elmer F. Andrews of the wage-hour division said yesterday he would ask Congress to consider amending the Fair Labor Standards Act to exempt high-salaried, white collar workers.

He told a press conference he had decided to seek congressional action, rather than deal with the question by administrative regulations. He indicated he had in mind workers on monthly or yearly salaries whose working time is flexible.

A bill to exempt from the white collar workers earning $15 or more annually already has been introduced by Representative Thomas (Dem.), Texas. His amendment would exclude newspaper reporters and writers, Thomas said, as well as office workers, bookkeepers and statisticians.

"The purpose of the (wage-hour) act is to stop child labor and prevent sweat-shop working conditions, and when you go beyond that into white collar categories you run into difficulties," Thomas said.

Administration leaders have privately that they oppose any changes in the Wage-Hour Act this session because they fear if any were considered, there would be a flood of amendments.

N. L. ROGERS GIVEN 5 YEARS AT PEORIA FOR EMBEZZLEMENT

Three Other Defendants in $500,000 Investment Company Crash Apply for Probation.

By the Associated Press.

PEORIA, Ill., March 3.—Nathan L. Rogers, president of an investment company which bore his name, was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary yesterday by United States Judge J. Leroy Adair on his plea of guilty of embezzlement, using the mails to defraud and conspiracy.

Three others in the now defunct company were allowed to file applications for probation. They were Ralph Buchele, secretary and cashier; William W. Rogers, a brother of the president, who managed a branch of the company at Danville, Ill.; and Landry P. Locke, treasurer.

All had withdrawn earlier pleas of not guilty. Locke entered a plea ofnolo contendere, the others pleaded guilty.

They were charged specifically with removing a Danville (Ill.) waterworks bond from the security department of the Central National Bank in Peoria.

After the indictments the company failed, with loss of more than $500,000 to investors.

SUSPECTS DANGER OF REGIMENTATION IN AGE PENSIONS

Dr. J. D. Brown of Princeton, Favors Contributory Social Insurance to Prevent Dependency.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Dr. J. Douglas Brown of Princeton University, chairman of the Social Security Advisory Council, said today "free pensions" for the aged might lead to regimentation.

Testifying before the House Ways and Means Committee on proposed changes in the Social Security law, Brown declared that other countries which had adopted paternalistic solutions for social problems had moved into regimentation, and "the step is a very easy one."

Brown denounced the Townsend old-age pension plan and its rival, the General Welfare Federation bill, as "dangerous and illusory."

"The two bills," he said, "embody a sort of primrose path to a form of what might be called paternalistic stagnation."

The educator told the committee both measures were "unworkable and essentially parasitic" in that they would tend to be a "drag on business activity and a drag on personal incentive."

As opposed to free pensions and direct relief, Brown said contributory social insurance offered the best means of preventing dependency before it occurs, preserved the habit of thrift and maintained "the dignity of human personality which is certainly needed in this day of totalitarianism."

JURY UNABLE TO AGREE IN EMBEZZLEMENT CASE

Mistrial Declared for W. J. Holwell, Accused of Taking Money From Realty Firm.

A mistrial was ordered last night by Circuit Judge Robert L. Aronson in the trial of William J. Holwell on a charge of embezzling $195 from the Hartwig-Dischinger Realty Co. after the jury reported at 10 o'clock it would be unable to reach a verdict. The jury had deliberated for three hours.

One juror reported that each of several ballots was 9 to 3 for acquittal. Testimony ended yesterday afternoon after Holwell, former cashier and employee for 17 years of the company, denied from the stand he had taken the money. The indictment charged he received $195 on June 1, 1937, from Mrs. Sophie Offer, 2106 Adelaide avenue, in payment of interest due the firm, and converted the money to his own use.

Holwell testified he gave Mrs. Offer a receipt, put the cash in a drawer in the office, and had no idea what happened to the money after that. He was discharged when auditors disclosed a shortage in his accounts, said by the Circuit Attorney's office to have been more than $42,000.

GRACE SAYS BETHLEHEM PAID HIGHER WAGE THAN U. S. STEEL

Compares 1938 Figures of His Company and Larger Concern Which Recognized the CIO.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 3.—Employees of Bethlehem Steel Corporation, including office and administrative, were told by President Eugene G. Grace yesterday that they received higher average earnings an hour in 1938 than were received by employees of the United States Steel Corporation, the nation's largest steel producer.

"Figures recently published," said Grace in the corporation's annual report to employees, "show that in 1938 the average earnings per hour of Bethlehem employees were 91.2 cents compared with 80.2 cents for employees of the United States Steel Corporation. This comparison is an indication of the favorable position of Bethlehem's wage level in the steel industry."

Grace's comparison of Bethlehem wages with those paid by United States Steel attracted attention in steel quarters in view of the controversies over labor policies, particularly since the "Little Steel" strike in 1937 affecting Bethlehem and other smaller companies, after United States Steel had recognized the CIO.

JURY OUT 3 MINUTES, ACQUITS VICE-CRUASADE DEFENDANT

Frees Book Store Owner Accused By Rev. Mary H. Ellis of Possessing Obscene Matter.

A jury in Court of Criminal Correction deliberated three minutes yesterday afternoon before acquitting Joseph Foster, owner of a book store at 410 Washington avenue, of a charge of possessing obscene matter.

Previously, he had been acquitted of a charge of sale of such literature, both charges being preferred by the Prosecuting Attorney on complaint of the Rev. Mary H. Ellis, vice crusader, who directed detectives in a raid on the store Oct. 18, 1938.

Mrs. Ellis, who was in court yesterday, did not testify as she had done at the first trial. Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Maurice Mushlin explained to the jury that the reason was that "the people of St. Louis are prejudiced against her." Material taken in the raid, identified by a detective who seized it, was introduced as evidence for the State and shown to the jury. The defense presented no evidence, but rested on a demurrer.

KENNEDY RECALLS POPE'S VISIT TO U. S.

U. S. Envoy to Britain Presented Him to President at Hyde Park.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, March 3.—United States Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy recalled today how he had been impressed by Pope Pius XII, then Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli, papal secretary of state, on his visit to President Roosevelt at Hyde Park, N. Y. It was Kennedy who took the Cardinal to the President's home and introduced him the day after Roosevelt's re-election in 1936.

The President's mother, Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt, also was there. The Ambassador said today:

"All of us were impressed by the essential holiness of the man, by his vast knowledge of world affairs and his preoccupation with the spiritual problems of the world."

The Cardinal went from Hyde Park to Kennedy's home in Bronxville where he surprised the Kennedys by presenting their nine children with silver papal anniversary medals.

"The Cardinal was particularly good to my little boy Teddy, who had trouble opening his medal box and climbed up the Cardinal's knee and asked him to open it," the Ambassador said.

When the visit ended, the Cardinal signed a portrait of himself for Kennedy.

That portrait stands today on Kennedy's study desk in the United States Embassy beside an unpublished photograph of President Roosevelt which the latter inscribed before Kennedy took up his London post a year ago yesterday.

While paying tribute to the new Pope's encyclopaedic knowledge of world affairs, Ambassador Kennedy emphasized that "first of all he is a saintly man. That is the important thing."

Two CCC Youths Killed by Taxi.
By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, March 3.—Two CCC youths were killed and another was injured last night when they were struck by a taxicab in which four other CCC youths were riding. All were members of the Skokie Valley Club. Those killed were Charles A. Raley, 18 years old, of Detroit, and Clifford Brodway, 18, of Bensons, Ill.

Held in Arms Smuggling Attempt.
By the Associated Press.
MEXICO CITY, March 3.—News- paper reports received last night from Nogales, Sonora, on the United States border, said three men were arrested there on charges of attempted smuggling of a "large quantity of cartridges and clothing into Mexico." Intended destination of the cartridges was not learned.

Nazi Press Reserved in Comment On New Pope: Notes Conclave Didn't Choose Exclusive Saver of Souls

Berlin Lokal Anzeiger Says Cardinal Chosen Was One "With Greatest Political Experience."

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, March 3.—The Nazi press accepted mostly without comment the election of Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli as Pope and sources close to the German Foreign Office indicated today that German policy for the present would be one of conciliation blended with a "wait-and-see" attitude.

Though in days immediately following the death of Pope Pius XI some sections of the press spoke critically of the Cardinal as opposed to Nazism, today's morning papers confined themselves largely to details of the election.

The Lokal Anzeiger came the closest to clear editorial comment when it said, "there were supposed to be many among the Cardinals who were for election of a Pope who would devote himself exclusively to the saving of souls. Now the Cardinal with the greatest political experience has been elected."

The Morgenpost noted that the new Pope "practically determined the policies of the Vatican under his predecessor."

Little stress was laid on the fact that the new Pope, then Vatican secretary of state, signed the concordat whereby Nazi Germany made peace with the Vatican in 1933.

One of the things which rankles most in Wilhelmstrasse is the fact that Cardinal Pacelli in 1937 chose not to disavow the utterances of George Cardinal Mundelein of Chicago which Nazis termed insulting to Reichsfuehrer Hitler.

(On May 18, 1937, Cardinal Mundelein, addressing a diocesan conference in Chicago, accused Nazi officials of fostering "malicious propaganda," against the church. He added, in part: "Perhaps you will ask, how it is that a nation of 60,000,000 intelligent people will submit in fear and servitude to an alien, an Austrian paperhanger, and a poor one at that, I am told.")

Pre-Election Comment.
A sample of press antipathy to Cardinal Pacelli before his election was the comment of Der Angriff, organ of Propaganda Minister Goebbels, after the death of Pius XI.

"Cardinal Pacelli, who was responsible for the 'holy alliance' of the Pope with Western democracies for the struggle against totalitarian states and also for efforts to undermine the Rome-

Berlin axis, has resigned his office."

(When Pius XI died virtually all appointments made by him lapsed, including that of the Secretary of State.)

The newspaper Zwoelfuhr Blatt, when discussing the chances of various Cardinals to become Pope, said, "the general trend even by church fathers which appears understandable after the strongly politically colored pontificate of Pius XI—tends toward the election of a spiritual father instead of a politician or a diplomat. The man most mentioned and about whom there is the most controversy, Cardinal Pacelli, should hardly get by on these grounds."

Mussolini's Paper Approves Election; Praises Pope.
By the Associated Press.

ROME, March 3.—Premier Mussolini's Milan newspaper, Il Popolo d'Italia, approved the election of Pope Pius XII today, while others of the Fascist press saw a continuation of the policies of his predecessor.

Mussolini's newspaper said that the orderly election guaranteed by the Fascist Government had proved the lasting benefits of the Vatican's conciliation with Italy in 1929, and then commented: "The elected Pope is noted for his piety which distinguishes him, for his vast and profound culture, and for his long and happy political and diplomatic apprenticeship. The Italian nation therefore greets the great event (his election) with profound sympathy."

Il Giornale d'Italia, in commenting on the choice, said: "No one can imagine that there will be any possible change in policies of the church's government," but commented on the new Pope's "younger mind" and "modernity of views."

Choice of Pius XII Shock to Nazis, English Papers Say.
By the Associated Press.

LONDON, March 3.—English newspapers headlined stories of the election of the Pope with such captions as "New Pope Hated by Hitler and Mussolini" and "Choice Annoys Germany; Shock to Nazis."

The papers elaborated editorially on the grave problems facing the new Pontiff because of strained relations between the Vatican and the German-Italian political axis partners.

Prior to the election Dr. Carl Ludwig Diegel von Bergen, Adolf Hitler's Ambassador to the Holy See, in an address before the Cardinals expressed the hope they would name a Pontiff to guide humanity through "tempestuous and fearful anxiety." The envoy spoke Feb. 16 as dean of the diplomatic corps accredited to the Holy See when the diplomats called for formal presentation of condolences on the death of Pius XI. He told the Cardinals their choice would play an important role in the development of "a new world." Observers immediately attached significance to that phrase because of its similarity to the "new Europe" which Hitler and Premier Mussolini of Italy have repeatedly asserted must be created.

French political quarters acclaimed the choice of Cardinal Pacelli, Catholic members of the French Chamber of Deputies considered his election likely to bring further sympathy from the church on behalf of democracies.

U. S. Government and Religious Leaders Pleased by Choice.
By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—The selection of the papal Secretary of State as the new Pontiff of the Catholic Church brought expressions of satisfaction from government and religious quarters here. Secretary of State Hull told a press conference that it was a matter of satisfaction and pleasure to learn of the selection of Cardinal Pacelli.

High officials of the Catholic Church in this country agreed that no previous Pope had such wide acquaintance with affairs and life in the United States as Pius XII.

The Most Reverend Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, apostolic delegate, referred to the new Pope's visit to the United States in the fall of 1936, when he was a Cardinal, and said: "Pius XII was enthusiastic about what he saw in this country and commented frequently on the great vitality of this nation."

The apostolic delegate recalled that the new Pontiff "was so eager to learn personally as much as possible about the American people during the few weeks that he remained here that his travels to every section of the United States were done for the most part by airplane."

The State Department will receive formal notification soon of the election of the new Pope, if custom is followed. Usually the notification comes either through a communication from the College of Cardinals to the American Embassy in Rome or through the apostolic delegate in Washington.

Bydolek, Golfer, Killed by Train.
By the Associated Press.
MASSILLON, O., March 3.—Joseph Bydolek, amateur golfer of Buffalo, N. Y., was killed yesterday when his automobile was struck by a Pennsylvania passenger train here. He was 48 years old.

FOUR MORE BUFFALO GRAFT CONVICTIONS

Three Men and Firm Found Guilty of Attempt to Defraud
City of $100,000.

By the Associated Press.

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 3.—Four more convictions were added in a 16-month-old municipal affairs inquiry last night, when a Supreme Court jury found three individuals and a corporation guilty of attempting to defraud the city of "more than $100,000."

Convicted on eight felony counts of submitting fraudulent vouchers for payment in crushed stone transactions, and on one misdemeanor count of conspiracy, were:

The Seneca Washed Gravel Corporation, James J. Pendergast Sr., secretary and treasurer; Robert Pendergast, son of James and a yard superintendent for the firm, and Roy G. Knox, former WPA project superintendent.

The jury recommended clemency for the elder Pendergast. All the defendants were acquitted on two of the original 10 felony counts.

Justice Albert Conway remanded Robert Pendergast and Knox to jail pending sentence on March 16, and ordered the elder Pendergast continued free on bail "because of the clemency plea." He set March 13 for hearing of arguments.

The felony charges dealt individually with various transactions in which the State contended false vouchers were presented to the city for payment for crushed stone that was not delivered to WPA projects.

The trial increased to 12 the number of convictions as a result of the investigations by an extraordinary grand jury and by regular county grand juries.

Seven guilty pleas have been accepted in various phases of the inquiry, four indictments were dismissed and there were two acquittals in the total of 47 indictments returned.

CONCERT OF SPIRITUALS

Program Tonight in Aid of Sharecroppers.
A concert of spirituals will be given by the Celestial Chorists at 8:15 p. m. today at Bishop Tuttle Memorial, Thirteenth and Locust streets, under auspices of the Committee for Rehabilitation of the Sharecropper.

The Rev. O. H. Whitfield, leader of the Southeast Missouri roadside demonstration in January, will speak. The chorus of trained Negro singers is directed by C. Spencer Tocus. Proceeds will be devoted to the work of the committee, which is headed by two St. Louis novelists, Mrs. Jerome Cook and Mrs. Thurlow Smoot, the former Josephine Johnson.

MOVE TO PUT HOUSING PLANS UP TO VOTERS

Real Estate Exchange and Others Seek Amendments to Missouri Bills.

Representatives of the St. Louis Real Estate Exchange and about other organizations opposed to Missouri housing bills, decided last night to seek amendments which would require the approval of voters of the slum-clearance projects contemplated under the legislation.

The amendments to be sought would require an election to determine whether the projects could be tax-exempt. As now drawn, the bills provide for tax exemption and give the Board of Aldermen the power to decide if

DILLON AND BASS SAY

$15,000-WAS FOR FEES

$5000 Retainer Each, $5000 for Expenses From Union; They Go Before Grand Jury.

Attorneys Paul Dillon and Edmund M. Bass, who went before the grand jury yesterday in its investigation of the payment of a $15,000 check to Dillon by Clyde A. Weston, indicted business agent of the movie operators' union, told reporters each had received a $5000 retainer fee for defense of the civil suit to oust Weston and John P. Nick from control of the union.

and that $5000 had been turned over for expenses. Another witness yesterday was Robert E. Hanneke, lawyer and chairman of the Democratic City Committee. While waiting in the grand jury ante-room, he said he had never represented Nick or Weston but had been counsel for the union last year in an equity suit involving movie theater regulations. Indications were that the jury took no vote yesterday. The three lawyers were subpoenaed as witnesses and were not asked to waive immunity. The jury will meet again Tuesday afternoon. Records of Dillon's bank account were taken before the jury Wednesday by an employee of the Mississippi Valley Trust Co., under subpoena. The $15,000 check, the Post-Dispatch has learned, was dated Feb. 9 and drawn by Weston on the Telegraphers' National Bank, where the union is said to have an account. Dillon told reporters that, when President William Green of the American Federation of Labor was informed recently that the local union had more than $100,000 in its treasury last Jan. 1, about twice the amount it had when Nick took charge, he remarked to Nick: "John, I wish we had more locals like yours." Weston and Nick were indicted recently on a charge of extortion in connection with a payment by representatives of movie theater owners of a $7000 "defense" fund raised by the owners in 1937 while union demands for wage increases were under consideration. The preceding grand jury indicted Nick and Edward M. (Putty Nose) Brady, for extortion in connection with an alleged payment to Brady of $10,000 raised by the owners under similar circumstances in 1936. Dillon represents Brady.

Wife Sues Edwin L. Mott. Mrs. Rhea Wright Mott, 12 Arundel place, filed suit yesterday to divorce Edwin L. Mott, president of the Mott Carton and Paper Co., alleging general indignities. They were married 11 years ago and separated last December. Mrs. Mott asks for custody of two children.

Senate Finance Committee
Head Says Economic Chaos Is Ahead if Debt

CALLS FOR UNIFIED
STUDY OF PROBLEM

Capital Looks to Expression
by Roosevelt at 150th Anniversary Congress Session Tomorrow.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—A demand from Senator Harrison (Dem., Mississippi) for drastic government economy brought the pending issue to the foreground today as President Roosevelt was turning from naval maneuvers to begin the seventh year of his administration. The congressional arguments over spending and foreign policies, along with the administration drive to improve business through co-operative efforts of industry, Government and labor, are likely to be the president's most pressing problems during the next few weeks. There is speculation on whether he will outline his views on them when he addresses the 150th anniversary session of Congress shortly after his return tomorrow morning. Congressmen said the first inauguration would offer him an unprecedented forum for discussing current issues. Gathered in the House chamber will be not only Senators and Representatives but also virtually every high Government official and 100 diplomats representing 54 countries. The program, including addresses by Speaker Bankhead, Senator Pittman (Dem.), Nevada, and Chief Justice Hughes, will be broadcast over a nationwide hookup at noon (11 a. m. St. Louis time).

Harrison's Economy Call. Harrison's call last night for a substantial cut in congressional appropriations became a factor in the business co-operation campaign, for he said a lowering of the spending level would be the best thing that could happen to improve business.

Harrison, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, asserted in this statement that the alternative to stringent economy was new taxes and a substantial increase in the national debt.

"I have no confidence in the economic philosophy that we must spend ourselves out of this economic disorder," he asserted. Many Congressmen viewed his declaration as serving to widen the split between economy-minded Senators and the White House over the administration's announced program of continuing expenditures at the present nine billion dollars level for the next year.

Text of Harrison Statement. The text of Senator Harrison's statement follows:

"The Government's fiscal picture must be carefully scanned, and that doesn't mean next year, but now—and it should be done through clear vision, and not through a colored lens. We are confronted with a budget which calls for over ten billion dollars in appropriations for the next fiscal year, and the cold suggestion in the budget message of a deficit that will amount to three and a half billion dollars."

"This Congress is to consider legislation that would make possible these large expenditures. We have a national debt of 40 billion dollars and a guaranteed underwritten debt of five billion dollars. The present law fixes the national debt limit at 45 billion dollars."

"With mounting expenditures and recurring deficits, it is inevitable that that limit will be reached about the first of July, 1940. Something must be done now to meet this serious situation. The Government cannot continue to spend such excessive sums without increasing the limit to which the national debt may go, or without increasing taxes to provide the current revenue to meet the appropriations."

"Taxes are now so heavy that to increase them would add additional burdens upon American industry and the American people. Additional taxes would act as a deterrent to the revival of business, to the increased employment of people, and would handicap the Government's effort to increase the national income. I am opposed, unless exceptional circumstances arise, to increasing by law the present limit of the national debt. The only way, however, to avoid the request coming to Congress for the taxes being increased is to bring immediately a radical and substantial cut in Government expenditures."

Wants House in Order. "I appreciate the difficulty of the task; but if everyone connected with the operation of Govern-

"We are confronted with a budget which calls for over ten billion dollars in appropriations for the next fiscal year, and the cold suggestion of the budget message of a deficit that will amount to three and a half billion dollars."

"This Congress is to consider the legislation that would make possible these large expenditures. We have a national debt of 40 billion dollars and a guaranteed underwritten debt of five billion dollars.
The present law fixes the national debt limit at 45 billion dollars."

"With mounting expenditures and rising deficits, it is inevitable that that limit will be reached about the first of July, 1940. Something must be done now to meet this serious situation. The Government cannot continue to spend such excessive sums without increasing the limit to which the national debt may go, or without increasing taxes to provide the current revenue to meet the appropriations."

"Taxes are now so heavy that to increase them would add additional burdens upon American industry and the American people. Additional taxes would act as a deterrent to the revival of business, the increased employment of people, and would handicap the Government's effort to increase the national income. I am opposed, therefore, to increasing by law the present limit of the national debt,
the only way, however, to avoid the request coming to Congress to bring immediately a radical and substantial cut in Government expenditures."

the task, but if everyone connected

ment...

WASHINGTON LETTER

By CHARLES G. ROSS

Reflections on Return to Washington After Five Years' Absence—Capital's Eternal Prosperity—"Palace Politics" in Ascendancy.

The first interpretative article on Washington developments written by Charles G. Ross, contributing editor of the Post-Dispatch, follows:
WASHINGTON, March 3.—It is like coming back to a familiar house which has been done over — to which have been added a recreation room in the basement and a couple of wings and in which new and streamlined furniture has been mixed in with the old-fashioned pieces. The heightened centralization of our Government in the last five years has made these changes, material and spiritual.

Striking among the changes is that in the game of politics. It remains, of course, fundamentally
what it has been through the ages,
what it always will be—a battle between the ins and the outs, with always a mixture of high-mindedness and low-mindedness on each side—but politics as it flourishes
here today, in the wonderland created by the New Deal, has features unknown in the earlier, simpler days.

There is now what might be called a "fifth estate," and this estate consists of the satellites whose sun is the President and who are dependent upon his continuance in office, or the election of one like him, for their future sustenance. Their activities have introduced a new phrase into the Washington patter—the foreign importation, "palace politics." One did not hear of "palace politics" five years ago. It is a perfect phrase. It tells a good deal of the current political scene and the changes that have come about.

The palace politicians are not interested in the success of the Democratic party as such. They are little for precedents and less for party names and the old shibboleths. They say that theirs is the new "politics of principle," in contrast with the politics of expediency or partisanship. They say they are interested only in the perpetuation of their ideas, not in their personal fortunes.

That is as it may be. There can be no doubt that among them there are some men of the loftiest, most idealistic motives; equally there can be no doubt that among them are many whose primary desire, like that of nine-tenths of our Presidential holders of whatever degree, is to stay on the payroll.

Whatever may be the motives
that animate this new "fifth estate," it constitutes a significant factor in the political life of Washington today. Palace politics, though not so-called, has been played before, but never so extensively as now, never with so much intrigue,
never for such high stakes.

No one knows whether the President wants a third term. I think an accurate picture of the situation today would show the President in the midst of a group of satellites, palace politicians, all using on him their best blandishments, telling him that he must be prepared to make the "sacrifice,"
for the country's sake, of running again.

The President, in this picture,
would be wearing a poker face.

ONLY FOUR AMERICAN WOMEN TO BE PRESENTED AT COURT

nounces Names of Those to Be Introduced Next Thursday.

the practice Ambassador Joseph P.
Kennedy inaugurated last year of restricting presentees to families of United States officials or residents of London, the United States Embassy announced today that only four American women will be presented at the Court of King George and his Queen, which will be held

CHAMBERLAIN HOLDS TO PLAN FOR ARAB RULE IN HOLY LAND

But, Spokesman Says, There Is Nothing to Stop Jews From Proposing Alternative.

LONDON, March 3.—Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain was reported last night to have refused to drop his plan for creating an Arab-dominate state to settle the Holy Land problem.

Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of New York, a delegate to the Arab-Jewish Conference, and Dr. Chaim Weizmann, president of the World
Zionist Organization, visited Chamberlain yesterday to urge preservation of the Jewish national home.

Later a British spokesman said
the British plan remained the basis for negotiations, but added that there was nothing to prevent Jews from submitting an alternative plan.

STABILIZATION FUND DEFENDED BY MORGENTHAU

Never Used to Rig Market for U. S. Securities or to Aid Arms Buying Abroad,
He Asserts.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau
assured the House Coinage Committee today the Treasury stabilization fund had never been used "to rig
the market" for Government securities.

Furthermore, he said, the Treasury has "no agreement with any other country to stabilize their currencies."

He made these statements in response to questions by Andren (Rep., Minnesota), at hearings on legislation to continue to Jan. 15, 1941, the stabilization fund and the administration's authority to alter
the gold content of the dollar.

To a question whether the fund
had been used to help foreign Governments buy armaments or war supplies, Morgenthau replied:

"I can answer under oath. No.
As long as I am there and Congress gives me that responsibility, the answer is no. If we ever become involved in any war, I'll come to this committee and ask for guidance on how to conduct the fund."

To Give Us Some Income.
When Andren asked whether the funds were used to buy or sell United States securities, Morgenthau said he had bought $31,000,000
to "give us some income" and then reduced the amount to $15,000,000
because he found less income was required.

"Then the fund is not used to stabilize Federal securities to afford a better market?" Andren inquired.

He said the tri partite monetary agreement with France and England was a "gentleman's agreement" and under it, the United States was "under no obligation to stabilize anyone else's currency."

"I attempt as best I can," he added, "to keep the United States

Howard Carter, Egyptologist Who Found King Tut's Tomb, Dies

Never a Believer in Story of 'Curse' — He Had Been Engaged in Research to Find Grave of Alexander the Great.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, March 3.—Howard Carter, Egyptologist, who found the tomb of the Pharaoh, Tut-ankhamen, died at his home here last night. Heart disease is understood to have been the cause of death.
He was 66 years old.

The archeologist penetrated the tomb in 1922 and found the mumi-fied body of the King, priceless jewels and ancient furniture. The King's body was incased in three coffins, the last of which was pure gold.

About 20 persons connected with the discovery died in recent years.
Lord Carnarvon, who financed the expedition, was the first to die—
from a mosquito bite—six weeks
after the tomb was opened.

Others who died included workmen employed in removing the 2000 tons of earth to reach the ancient crypt.

Each time a death was recorded,
Pharaoh's curse, "death shall come on swift wings to him that toucheth
the tomb of Pharaoh," was recalled.

But Mr. Carter, a few years ago, said "If anybody was exposed to the 'curse' I was. I slept in the tomb for two weeks and even had my meals there, and never felt better in my life."

The archeologist found the tomb on Nov. 30, 1922, in the Valley of Kings on the west bank of the Nile
at Luxor, and summoned Lord Carter to the tomb.

REORGANIZATION BILL MAY GO TO HOUSE MONDAY

Debate on Measure, Approved by Committee,
Limited to 8 Hours;
G. O. P. Wanted 15.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—The executive reorganization bill probably will be brought before the House Monday following an agreement by that chamber today to limit debate on the measure to eight hours.

Republicans had wanted 15 hours
debate but, when arrangements were made to obtain a special rule
providing for a smaller amount,
they decided not to contest the point and a meeting of the Rules Committee was called off.

Three minority members of the special reorganization committee,
which approved the bill yesterday,
submitted to the House, meanwhile,
a report asserting they were in sympathy with any reorganization program that would result in efficiency, economy, co-ordination, reduction of agencies and elimination of overlapping efforts.

But they added: "Every delegation of legislative authority to the present President of the United States has resulted in disaster."

Majority Statement.
The majority report of the committee declared that its proposed grant of power to President Roosevelt "revamps the executive branch, creates absolutely no new agencies."

Minority members of the committee said the sole purpose of the reorganization bill, approved by the committee yesterday, was the creation, by transfer of functions, of two huge Federal agencies to handle public works and public welfare.

Representative Taber (Rep., New York), asserted they would be
"efficient for propaganda purposes only and not for administration."

Formerly recommending the revised measure to the House, the majority report of the committee declared it was much less drastic than a previous bill, and had as its

Housing Act's Limited Application.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

REAL ESTATE EXCHANGE opponents of the proposed act to permit low-rent housing are troubled over Section 3F, "Area of Operation," which states that said area "in the case of a housing authority of a city shall include such city and the area within five miles from the territorial boundaries thereof." Worry on this score can evaporate. The act as amended limits the area to St. Louis proper.

Surely, no one need fear that the local Housing Authority, if created, will build new slum-clearance projects near the county line. St. Louis is dying at the heart. The heart is downtown St. Louis; this great trade area and tax producer must be restored. It can be stimulated only by increasing the number of customers living within the city limits.

Property values near the heart of town must be stabilized; vacant areas must again become thronged with people; acres of homes must be built to accommodate families in downtown neighborhoods, so that people may, by walking to work, save time and expense. J. WOLF, Neighborhood Association.

Thinks Us Inconsistent on Poetry.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

YOUR editorial in last Sunday's Post-Dispatch, "Missouri's Poetry Day," was a great surprise to me. For, if you like poetry so much, why is it that you print practically none on your editorial page? This is the only fault I have to find with the Post-Dispatch. One good poem daily on the editorial page would improve its tone materially.

MYRTLE LASLEY.

Defends Manassett Project.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I, TOO, think the Manassett Village project should be defended by all who are interested in progress and modern building. Furthermore, it deserves the united support of organized labor.

What has the average real estate concern done for organized labor? Ninety per cent of the small homes are built by "scalpers," with a top wage of 75 cents per hour. Then with a handsome price tag, they go on the market. These builders certainly demand exorbitant profits, yet they resent anyone else adopting their tactics.

I say more power to the FEIA and its very capable engineers. The Property Owners' Association of St. Louis County should realize that it can't fence out progress.

GRANT TULLIS.

Says Hoover Had His Chance.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

DO not dispute Orel T. Davis' assertion in the letter column that Herbert Hoover is safe, sane and honest. However, I can't understand why Mr. Davis expects the Post-Dispatch to say something pleasant about him occasionally. Mr. Hoover had his chance and is now just another citizen.

As to the statement that he started from the bottom and worked up, politically he started from the top and worked down. Far from braving the depression, he spent the last part of his term in complete passivity, waiting for Mr. Roosevelt to take over the job. As hard up for candidates as the Republican party is, it couldn't take a chance on a man such as Hoover for standard-bearer.

Doubts American Labor Is "Unrestricted."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

N Saturday's Post-Dispatch you reprinted "A Resume of Labor's Status Under the Iams." I must take exception to the statements about the United States, especially as to workers' rights.

It was stated that the right to work and the right to contract individual service were "unrestricted." Certainly since the Labor Board has been established as an adjunct of the CIO, with closed shops and exclusive bargaining everywhere rampant, one can scarcely say that the right of an individual to contract his own services, or the right of a minority group to work, is "unrestricted."

Labor today is the slave of the labor agitator and racketeer.

A NEW DEAL SLAVE.

Tribute to a Kindly Motorman.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE minds of so many persons who serve the public during these times seem in such a state of courtesy and the sense of humor are lost. The servant of the public should have a most outstanding sense of humor and courtesy. Has this streamlined age obliterated those two most important factors?

The Public Service Co. should feel proud of having among its employees an elderly motorman who daily runs the 9 a. m. Kirkwood-Ferguson car. He is a real problem-solver for many of us. The meanderings and vicissitudes of life do not prevent him from radiating humor and courtesy to all. Long may he live to serve his fellow-men in such a manner!

A MAGNIFICENT CHOICE.

We rejoice in the elevation of Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli to the papacy. He is a man of high talent, superb attainment and wide experience. As Papal Secretary of State, he won the admiration of the great Pius XI as to become his candidate for the succession and, although it is rare that a Secretary of State to the previous Pope has been chosen for the great office, the College of Cardinals acted with a decisiveness unparalleled in the church's modern history. Not since 1821 has a conclave acted so promptly.

It is difficult not to see, both in the choice of Pacelli and the extraordinary circumstances of his selection, a terrific rebuke to the totalitarian nations. For certain elements in these nations have had the incredible effrontery to attempt to influence the Cardinals in their choice of a man to direct the spiritual destinies of 400,000,000 people throughout the world. For the first time in generations, perhaps in centuries, open pressure has been brought to bear in this high religious matter.

We refer, for example, to a recent editorial in Das Schwarze Korps, mouthpiece of the Nazi "Elite Guard," ordering the four German Cardinals to vote for a new Pope who will not oppose Naziism. Said the paper:

We shall unrelentingly pillory any misuse of religion for political purposes, no matter whether we discover such misuse in case of a chaplain from the village church pulpit, or the new "representative of Christ" on the papal chair.

The paper proceeded to criticize the late Pope as "a man who as head of the Roman Catholic church took a positive position in recent years against the totalitarian states." It said that Germany stands for no interference, "even if the dictates are doled up as encyclicals or pastoral letters."

In like vein, the newspaper Telegrafo of Leghorn, Italy, spokesman for Mussolini's son-in-law, Foreign Minister Ciano, warned the Cardinals not to elect a "political Pope," meaning, of course, a Pope who would not play the political game of the Fascists. It expressed itself as especially fearful lest Cardinal Pacelli be elected, since Pacelli is on record as an outspoken opponent of the pagan and racist theories of the totalitarian states. Not only did Mussolini oppose Pacelli, but, as pointed out in the Post-Dispatch recently by W. Stephen Bush, an American correspondent in Rome, Mussolini had his own candidate in the person of Cardinal Ascalesi of Naples.

Mr. Bush, after describing Cardinal Pacelli's eminent qualifications for the papacy, said:

It would appear, then, that the tiara, the triple crown of the papacy, was well within the reach of Cardinal Pacelli. Such, however, is not the case. A distinct and tangible opposition to the candidacy of the silent Papal Secretary of State has been growing and crystallizing for some time, until now, on the eve of the historic conclave, it is by many regarded as formidable. The opposition has been inspired by no less a personage than Mussolini himself.

The Cardinals have answered this arrogant effort to interfere in the affairs of the church in the swiftest and most pointed way by choosing a man who, in the estimate of one close observer, will "fight the doctrine of excessive nationalism, on which the totalitarian state rests its case, to a finish, without even a waver toward compromise." This means, of course, that the new Pope will refuse to tolerate a new political doctrine which regards the state, not only as superior to the individual, denying him his God-given dignity, but as superior to the church as well.

Even in normal times, Cardinal Pacelli's elevation would be hailed as a distinguished choice and another instance of the wisdom and spiritual integrity of the ancient Church of Rome. But in view of the special conditions now existing, the action of the Cardinals, in its rebuke to Europe's monsters on horseback, is no less than thrilling.

WORDS AND DEEDS.

General Electric's Gerard Swope appeared before a House committee earlier in the week and was, we should think, a comforting witness. Certainly he is wholly free from the fears that obsess so many of the great and the near-great. As regards that social security fund, for instance, which is to reach colossal proportions by 1930 and has already inspired fearful prophecies, Mr. Swope is quite at ease. Changes will occur during the years, and the administration of the trust, he is confident, will be adapted to circumstances. He has no notion that the Government may embezzle the money or squander it in riotous living. He has faith in the Government.

But he said one thing the present administration should take to heart. Apropos the friendlier attitude of executive and Cabinet officers, he remarked that "business likes to hear kind words, but by their acts ye shall know them." An old truth, but quite as vigorous as when first uttered. Someone once lured that adage away and, arraying it in poetic garments, presented it thus: "Words are the daughters of earth, but deeds are the sons of heaven."

In current, though already aging, vernacular it might, we suppose, be translated: "Washington, do your stuff!"

Coin collectors have "written up" the Daniel Boone Bicentennial half-dollar to $65. The super-Manassett touch, eh?

ARE WE HOSTILE TO POETS?

The Post-Dispatch came out last Sunday for "Missouri's Poetry Day"—unequivocally and unafraid. We may have entertained the hope that this forthright endorsement of the bill now languishing in committee at Jefferson City might move to action the folks up in Parnassus and the gentler colony at the more fashionable Pierian Springs. Nothing doing. So far from kindling enthusiasm in the elect, we are taken to task, as will be seen in the letter column, being charged with inconsistency, and, implicitly, with hostility to the muse. If we are the earnest friend of poetry we pretend to be, why, pray, our critic asks, do we not print more poetry? Did our critic, perchance, find the answer in yesterday's letter column? Surely Lucile Pittman Lee's sonnet to Dempster MacMurphy must have voiced the prayer in the hearts of every man and woman who knew the man. The flavor and the flame of his gallant spirit graced and illumined the lines. And to all true lovers of poetry, with or without the personal interest, here is a sonnet in the fine Miltonic tradition, rich in the distinction of sincerity, lovely in the beauty of what has been called "the dactyl phrase."

To such verse, we open wide the door. But alas! in its wake comes a ragged and numerous pack of doggerel fit only for a none-too-compensated wastepaper-basket. The trouble, dear correspondent, is that the good Lord seldom touches the modern versifier with divine fire.

BACK TO HAWLEY-SMOOTISM?

The announcement that Republican leaders in Congress plan to make repeal or emasculation of the reciprocal trade treaties a major issue in 1940 is keenly disappointing. From the standpoint of opportunistic politics, it may be a sound move, but by the standards of statesmanship, it is palpable demagoguery.

If a return to the Hawley-Smoot insanity is the best we can hope for from reviving Republicanism, it is evident that the party has less than nothing to offer in the way of the restoration of a sound economy.

Senator McNary and Representative Martin, minority leaders in their respective houses, make it clear they believe that repeal of the reciprocal trade pacts would be a popular issue with the farmers. Admittedly, the farmers have been led to believe in certain cases that a slight increase in agricultural imports, principally from Canada, has depressed domestic prices. Gov. Hell picked up some votes on this issue in his campaign for chief executive of Wisconsin.

But we venture the assertion that there is not one agricultural economist of note in the United States but will say that over the long haul the reciprocal trade program is highly beneficial to the farmer. It has been shown that a lowering of farm tariffs by the reciprocal trade pacts has been a trifling factor in the fall of agricultural prices. There is one Republican leader who has been doing some hard thinking and frank talking about farm tariffs. Col. Frank Knox says:

To attempt to help the farmer by promising him higher and higher tariffs on his products is naught but a red herring drawn across the trail to divert him from attack on the excessively high tariff rates on domestic manufactures. . . . The only time a tariff on domestic farm products can be of the slightest use to the American farmer is during a season of unusual drouth, or crop shortage from some other causes, and then it is always at the expense of the American consumer.

The deep-rooted illness of American agriculture will never be cured by farm tariffs or by subsidies. It can be cured only by reasonable steps to subject the commodities the farmer must buy to regulation by the same world forces which set the prices of the commodities the farmer produces.

The fairest and most feasible approach to this end is Secretary Hull's reciprocal trade program. We believe the farmer, given time to think the matter through, will recognize the anti-trade treaty propaganda for the red herring that it is.

JUDGE MANTON'S INDICTMENT.

If former Judge Manton of the Federal Circuit Court of Appeals thought he could escape prosecution by resigning from the bench, he reckoned without Attorney-General Murphy's jealousy for the integrity of the judiciary. John T. Cahill, the aggressive new District Attorney whom Attorney-General Murphy named to prosecute the case, has obtained Manton's indictment on three counts. They range from conspiracy to defraud the Government of the disinterested and unbiased services of Judges of the courts to acceptance of large sums of money from corporations with litigation pending in the court.

Judge Manton's punishment in being forced from the bench is in itself severe, but it would be straining the quality of mercy too far to assume that this explains the guilt contemplated in the charges. Behind charges of judicial bribery lies the vastly worse offense of undermining public respect for the courts. A demonstration that the Department of Justice is prepared to prosecute to the full extent of the law a man so highly placed may help repair the damage that has been done in besmirching the second highest court in the land.

MUSICAL TIMIDITY IN ST. LOUIS.

The conservatism that seems to have a tight clutch on St. Louis music is shown up by the fact that when Carlos Chavez, Mexican guest conductor, directs the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra today and tomorrow in Shostakovich's First Symphony, it will be the first time the orchestra has played any of the important Russian modernist's five symphonies.

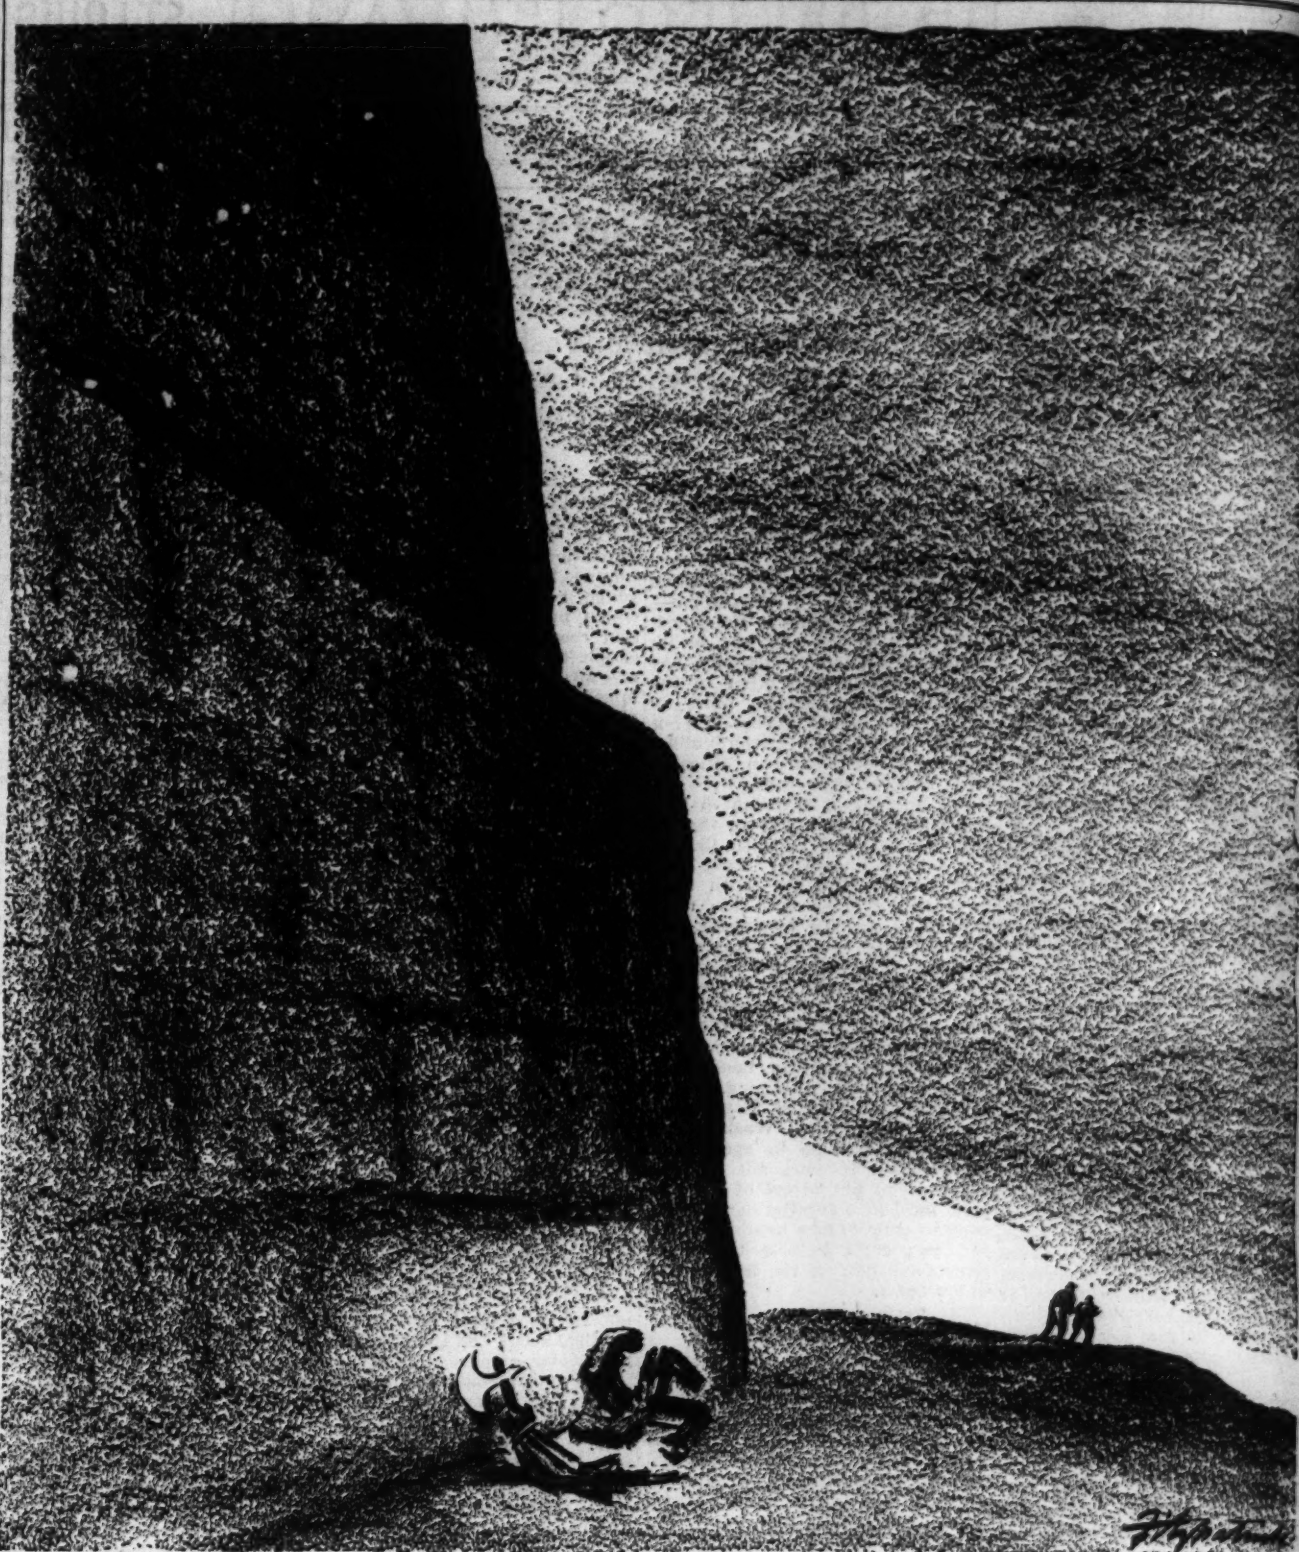

Chavez can get away with it, being a guest, but the regular conductor of the symphony, Vladimir Golschmann, although himself an advocate of modernism, has had to give his audiences the works of new or long-established radical composers in infrequent small doses. When Golschmann inaugurated the "Music of Our Time" concerts last November, it looked like a chance to give modern works considered too extreme for the predominantly conservative audiences at regular concerts. But in the two such concerts he gave, Golschmann didn't stray far from the beaten path. Most of the works given had been or could have been played at the regular concert without endangering the blood pressure of old symphony subscribers.

At the first concert, Sibellus' oft-heard Second Symphony was offered, although that composer's third and sixth symphonies have never been played by the St. Louis orchestra at regular concerts, according to records going back to 1912. Although Prokofiev's dazzling suite, "Lieutenant Kije," also given, was certainly appropriate to the occasion, symphony-goers had an opportunity to hear it at regular concerts a short time later. At the second concert, the Moussorgsky and Ibert works which formed the bulk of the program were favorites which had been presented at least twice before on regular programs and could be again.

But a glance through the regular concert programs of the orchestra shows a wealth of modern music has been neglected. For instance, Stravinsky's highly important and once-shocking "Rites of Spring," has never been played after 26 years, an excuse being it calls for 107 pieces. Schoenberg hasn't been played for 15 years. Only one work of Scriabin, who, although he died in 1915, wrote ahead of his time, has been heard. Karol Szymanowski and Bela Bartok haven't been presented at all. The fiery Hindemith was played as recently as two years ago, but his surprisingly tender score for the ballet, "St. Francis," so enthusiastically received at a Ballet Russe performance in January, might well be repeated. Honegger's intriguing "Concertina" certainly deserves a hearing.

Symphony-goers can't determine whether they like these things unless they get a chance to hear them. They shouldn't be made to depend on records and the radio to find out what's new in music.

How the Press Uses Its Freedom

Publisher answers President's criticism of newspapers, and cites long list of achievements in last year; campaigns drove corrupt officials from power, brought about sound legislation, worked for Government economy, health measures and safety; speaker concedes faults, but thinks the press still functions as true public tribunal.

From an Address by James Wright Brown, Publisher of Editor & Publisher, Before the Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers' Association.

IT is a wholesome sign of the times that instrumentalities of public service are being closely examined and scrutinized these days, by friends and foes alike, to ascertain both strength and weakness. This is especially true of newspaper service, perhaps the most vital agency for communication the world has ever known.

But doesn't it hurt our pride a little, knowing intimately newspaper operation as we do, to find the President of the United States embracing every opportunity apparently to emphasize the little imperfections of the press and unwilling usually to express any appreciation of the great public service the newspapers render?

The President in December wrote a long article on the subject of the freedom of the press for the sixtieth anniversary of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. In his charming manner and gracious spirit, he did his very best to create the impression that our newspapers are edited from the counting room.

You and I know that some newspapers are edited from the counting room, but by and large newspapers are not so edited. It is a deliberate policy of the country to have anyone create or try to create the impression that newspapers are to any large extent controlled in this way. This is not true.

Speaking broadly of newspaper editorial influence, permit me to cite some outstandingly successful campaigns of 1938.

In Waterbury, Conn., the Republican and American were responsible for an expose of malfeasance in public office, and 22 persons were indicted, including the Mayor. Three convictions have been obtained to date and trials of others indicted are scheduled. The articles in these newspapers steadily convinced more and more people until at last a new Comptroller was elected and the old gangs were turned out.

In Cleveland, the News discovered that at the last session of the Ohio Legislature a bill had been sneaked through and passed which would have exempted people from paying debtily on the roads. The death curve is beginning to drop. It's still appalling, but fatalities for 1938 are less by 8500 than they would have been had the 1936 trend continued.

Illustrating the fact that the newspapers are sincere in their campaigns and not conducting them merely as circulation boosters, was the fact that all three Buffalo (N. Y.) papers: Evening News, Courier-Express and Times—joined in a drive against malfeasance in the office of Mayor George Zimmerman, who ultimately was convicted.

Another important newspaper drive in recent months was on "isms," chiefly Fascism. Hardly a newspaper has failed to harp on the theme that the only "ism" worthy of Americans is Americanism.

Another fine example of newspaper influence is the raising of the word "syphilis" from the poolroom to ballroom status. Opinions may differ on whether anything was accomplished, but experts, including those in the United States Public Health Service, think a great social gain was made.

One thing is certain, and on this friends and critics alike can agree: the press, with all its admitted defects, is functioning today in the public interest more ably than ever before in its history.

Guam: A Strange Land

From the Congressional Record.

MR. BOLLES of Wisconsin: Mr. Chairman, before I proceed with these few remarks I will remove from my coat a United States flag made in Japan. (Laughter.) For 41 years we have owned this island (Guam). Its government has been of the navy. We have a fine electric plant over there, and we are too far away to get TVA. (Laughter.) I wish the gentlemen from Mississippi (Mr. Rankin) were here so he could make a note of that.

We have built some waterworks there. We have dredged out the harbor from time to time. We have ordered the natives that they shall have 12 chickens, one rooster, a few pigs and raise a few crops to keep them from being on WPA. (Laughter.) We have done a great work over there.

I believe some of the members thought it was like Boston, just a state of mind. I am tempted to paraphrase some of that great classical speech by Proctor Knott, when he talked of Duluth, the zenith city of the unaltered sea. But this is no place for levity. Guam is a reality. It is hard to find in the island-sprinkled Pacific—like picking out one grain of pepper from the box of salt identifying it. I am moved to emotion when I think of all the millions of our people who live and perhaps die without knowing of the beauties and glories of the lizard and rat-inhabited Guam.

Strange land is this! There are no indigenous quadrupeds. Everything on four legs has been introduced from the outside. Hogs are raised, but there has never been enough to warrant a pig-killing program. Many years ago, in a spirit of adventure, I sailed around Guam up to Saipan, 121 miles, a large island from Japan, past a little island called Rotaova. I think that is where the Rotary Club started. (Laughter.) But the fact is, this little volcanic island, this island of Saipan, has excellent harbors for small craft.

Now, I want to get back just a minute to the commerce of Guam. Twenty-two thousand chemise-clad natives constitute its population. (Laughter.) You must understand that up in Saipan, where the Japanese are, where they own this island, they use the G-string as the chief article of sartorial adornment. (Laughter.) But Kimaras down in Guam are still so civilized that they wear the chemise.

Mr. Schafer of Wisconsin: Why not send these warlike New Dealers, Mr. Ickes, Mr. Wallace and Mr. Pittman, to Guam to lead the army of these chemise-clad natives?

Mr. Bolles: Not being a paid officer of the navy, I cannot answer that.

THE WAR ON SYPHILIS.

From Newswatch.

FOUR years ago, Dr. Thomas Parran, Surgeon-General of the United States Public Health Service, was refused permission to mention syphilis over the radio. This was hardly surprising, for most newspapers and magazines also had strict taboos against the mention of venereal disease. Publishers and broadcasters feared the storm of protest they believed would follow such frankness.

Shocked by this conspiracy of silence—which he knew was one of the biggest obstacles to successful war on venereal ailments, Dr. Parran, co-operating with the American Social Hygiene Association, started a tactful publicity campaign. With the Ladies Home Journal, the New York Daily News and the St. Louis Post-Dispatch leading the way, Victorian taboos yielded to this pressure, and last year found most of the nation's press valiantly backing the syphilis fighters.

New Admin II. The

IN MY article on Wednesday I argued that the failure of the purge and the Republican gain in the 1938 elections marked the end of a political era. The New Dealers lost control of the Democratic party and the divided party is on its way to losing control of the country. But a political change of this kind must, of course, reflect some condition in the life of people and so we must try to understand what has brought the New Dealers to their present condition.

It is, I believe, that they have reached a dead end on the path they were following. Reduced to simplest terms, they have established a system by which a substantial portion of the national income is being redistributed by political devices.

The doubling of the Federal income tax does not represent the whole of this political redistribution of the national income. In addition to the relief money, the subsidies, the public works, the social security program and the subsidies to State and local governments, there also is the wages policy, enforced through the trade unions, through the decisions of the National Labor Relations Board and the Federal wage fixing.

Given the present national income, the administration has redistributed it as much as it can go in the political redistribution of that income. In fact, it cannot keep the distribution at the present level for any long time to come. That is why all the spokesmen of the New Deal, beginning with the President, now are saying that salvation depends upon raising the national income from 60 billions to 80 billions or even 100 billions.

But, when they look at business they find that the corporate directors are not making the investment of capital which would begin to produce this much larger national income. For a time the New Dealers tried to believe that enough Government spending would put enough "purchasing power" into the community to create such a demand for goods that corporate investors would find it profitable to expand. This has been the theory of Keynes. But the Government's Government spending offers are not enough to overcome the risks the investors fear.

These risks are of two kinds. There is the risk of new political measures which will create new burdens. And then, there is the fact that even if men were enterprising and took real risks the Government will seize the larger profits by taxation if they win but will give no relief if they lose.

The dilemma of the New Deal is that they cannot control the distribution of national income as they now are redistributing it. Less than can induce corporate investors to enlarge the national income. But it is very difficult to induce the investors to invest.

And the reasons are: First, the investors believe that the New Deal system of redistributing income will enlarge itself under political pressure. Second, that the careers of the New Dealers are founded on the willingness to cater to these political pressures. Third, that even if they ignore these apprehensions, and took risks that could yield large profits.

New Administration Policy: II. The Way Out

IN MY article on Wednesday I argued that the failure of the party and the Republican gains in the 1936 elections marked the end of a political era. The New Dealers lost control of the Democratic party and the divided party is on its way to losing control of the country. But a political change of this kind must, of course, reflect some condition in the life of the people and so we must try to understand what has brought the New Dealers to their present condition.

Workshop to Present "The Circle." the existing tax laws, particularly the capital gains tax, mean that they cannot hope to enjoy any considerable part of their profits.

The administration is now trying to resolve this dilemma. It is seeking to assure the investors that the New Dealers who set up the system will not, at least for a time, enlarge it.

In my last article on this subject, I tried to show why these assurances are not likely to work unless there is a reorganization inside the administration which places a fair share of responsibility and power in the hands of Democrats who are not New Dealers.

Besides the assurance, the administration is trying with the idea of a reform of the tax laws that would permit men to take profits commensurate with the risks. If he is bold about it, I believe, the one and only chance he has to bring about such a big recovery that, without a political reorganization, the opposition will be quitted.

By sponsoring promptly the outright repeal of the capital gains tax, he may still at this late date be able to induce such a tide of speculation and investment that he can float his administration off the rocks on which it is now foundering.

It would be a very bold stroke, and it is hard to say whether the New Deal stalwarts would stand for it or would regard it as a betrayal of the whole New Deal philosophy. But if the President is strong enough with his personal adherents to sustain the only measure now in sight which has enough energy in it to bring quick and great results.

It is the one measure above all others which could create a sufficient prospect of profit to overcome the deep inertia of business men and investors. Both because of its actual effect in dollars and cents, and because of what it implied as a general social philosophy, it alone might exert the kind of power which will undo the chain of capital now lying in the banks.

It is the one measure which promises to make what Mr. Keynes has been talking about. For only a great volume of new private capital expenditures can create the revenues to sustain the great volume of public expenditures.

If Mr. Roosevelt is still as bold as he used to be, he will see that half measures will not extricate him from the situation in which he now finds himself. The outright repeal of the capital gains tax, accompanied by the modification of some of the other taxes, is not a half measure.

It is a stroke at the root of his difficulty, and though no one can guarantee that it will work, no one can guarantee that it will not. It is a measure which would give the kind of action which gave substance to the assurances now pouring forth from Washington.

Coming at a time when the danger of a world war is infinitely lessened, it could give the country the breathing space of a period of high prosperity. Perhaps in that period the country could find a way to deal with its deeper difficulty: the difficulty of getting control over the economic forces which have an indefinite and illimitable distribution by political devices of the national income of the people.

DR. KARL COMPTON ATTACKS TRUTH DISTORTION IN CLASSES

Shows How Teachers May Omit Information in Fear of Losing Their Jobs.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, March 3.—Dr. Karl T. Compton, president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, said last night academic freedom faced two new threats—"the teachers' oath laws in several of our states and the control of teaching for political purposes in the authoritarian countries of Europe."

He told the Technology Club of Chicago the distortion of truth in the classroom was cowardly and dangerous. He added:

"The teachers' oath bills are, I believe, far less serious because no American would object to such a guarantee that the Constitution which guarantees him his right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

"The threat to academic freedom here comes from danger that this law is a precedent for further more exacting political regulation of teaching from danger to abuse."

"For example, a geography teacher tells his class that Russia is the largest country of the earth. A parent reports to a political agent or to the American Legion that this teacher is praising Russia over the United States. The teacher's job is threatened on the charge that she is a Communist. So the teacher and her colleagues decide not to mention Russia in the future and leave their pupils in ignorance of this important country."

HALF OF THE STUDENTS AT YALE ARE WORKING

President Seymour Tells St. Louis Alumni of Self-Support Among Students.

Half the students at Yale University are partly self-supporting either through jobs or scholarships or both, President Charles Seymour told members of the Yale Club of St. Louis at a dinner at the University Club last night.

Students come to the university better prepared and more willing to work than was the case before, he asserted. He said they were of high quality, selected from a large list and picked from all parts of the country. Some, he added, were decidedly "unbookish."

Dr. Seymour's appearance here was his first since becoming Yale's twentieth president in February, 1937. An alumnus of the university and of Kings College, Cambridge, he was a member of the history department for 25 years.

Cheers Then and Now. Greeted warmly by 125 graduates and former students, he remarked that not long ago the only cheers he received came when he announced there would be no class in history.

Describing the gathering as a directors' meeting and not a stockholders' meeting, he said the basic question was "How is Yale today achieving its main purpose, the preparation of youth for citizenship by bringing them the learning of the past and showing them how to apply it to problems of the present?"

The school wants to teach its undergraduates to use their brains and wants to bring them in contact with the "grandeur of the past which have no economic value but in the long run make civilization," he said. "The boy at college should learn to appreciate spiritual values. If those values disappear we are heading for barbarism."

In proof that Yale men are still male animals, 18 to 22 years old, he related what happened recently on the night of a hockey game. Traffic was jammed near the university and group of students set out to jam it further by directing 200 automobiles into an area where there were already 50. Some cars were moved on to lawns. Police arrived. Then the students decided to leave and the jam was broken since a false alarm would be an illegal act, they built a bonfire under an alarm box and summoned 100 firemen. Dr. Seymour said as president of the university he disapproved but as a Yale man he didn't.

Individual Treatment. Through faculty supervisors, he said, students are now being treated more as individuals than in a mass. "We are developing interest in the individual which was lacking in my day," he added.

"Freshmen now are receiving particular attention from young graduate counselors," he continued. "They confide in their advisers as they never did in my day." Sometimes duties of the advisers include a trip to Poughkeepsie, N. Y., to bring back a wandering freshman visiting a girl friend.

"There is a perpetual budgetary headache," he admitted, "because the returns on our investments are constantly falling. Our expenses are increasing; they're bound to. I'm not clear where the money is coming from. We know that economies can be made and are hunting anxiously for them. But we are confident."

In reply to a question from the audience, he said Yale-in-China was "carrying on," although part of the school is now conducted far inland and the Japanese did a great deal of damage to the buildings.

INTERESTING CONCERT OF CHAMBER MUSIC

Strauss and D'Indy Numbers Played on Wind Instruments at Sheldon Memorial.

THE last and most interesting concert in the chamber music series presented by the Ethical Society was given last night in Sheldon Memorial Auditorium. The whole program was played without benefit of strings, except for one number. It was a night for the winds to howl and howl they did, very musically, in little known works by Richard Strauss and Vincent D'Indy.

The D'Indy number called "Chanson et Danse" or simply "Song and Dance" was presented by a small wood and French horn ensemble with Max Steindel conducting. The two numbers by Richard Strauss were "Serenade" and "Suite."

All three numbers had a direct appeal by reason of their lyrical richness. It was a night for the winds to howl and howl they did, very musically, in little known works by Richard Strauss and Vincent D'Indy.

In addition to the Strauss and D'Indy music, a short piece for the novel combination of bassoon and cello, was well played by Max Steindel at the cello and Henry Connington at the bassoon.

The artists participating in the concert were Max Steindel, cello and director; Laurent Torno and John Kiburz, flutes; R. M. Zotarelle and Clarence Gesner, clarinets; Henry Connington and Norman Hensberg, bassoon; John Farrel, contrabassoon; Edward Murphy, Joseph Vigna, Robert Gustat and John Mount, French horns.

"Tangerine days" are still here!

Those luscious, Florida tangerines you see at your market these days are of unusually fine quality. So sweet—so juicy—so easy to peel—so economical!

And they're so good—for young or old! That's because tangerines rank right along with oranges in vitamin richness. And they're even richer in calcium—which means they're especially good for children.

But, you know, the tangerine season lasts only a few short weeks. Soon they'll be gone for another whole year!

So keep tangerines on your daily shopping list. Put them in school lunches. Keep a big bowlful handy for young, eager fingers; for bedtime snacks and between-meal bites. Enjoy your fill while they last!

ARMOUR PLANT PICKETED BUT EMPLOYEES ARE AT WORK

Union Seeks to Organize 104 Employees There; "No Dispute," Manager Says.

Picketing of the Armour & Co. distributing plant at 2030 Clark avenue was continued today by Butchers & Packing House Employees' Union, Local 545, which is seeking to organize the 104 sausage makers, butchers and laborers employed there.

E. J. Harrington, branch manager, told a reporter all employees were at work today. "There is no dispute between Armour & Co. and their employees at 2030 Clark avenue," he said, "and operations are proceeding as usual with all employees at work."

"The picketing and distributing of circulars now going on there are for the obvious purpose of compelling our employees to join the union, with which they apparently do not desire to be affiliated. The circulars claim that Armour employees are not members of the union and that the company refuses to co-operate in compelling the employees to join the union and bring about a closed shop. It is contrary to law and contrary to the company's policy to require employees to join or refuse to join any particular union."

BENES SAYS DICTATORS SIT ON SHAKY THRONES

Former Czech President Tells Chicago Club Their Failures Spell Downfall.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 3.—Dr. Eduard Benes, former President of Czechoslovakia, said today only power politics sustain the European authoritarian regimes and that the failures of the dictatorships were leading to a reaction.

"Politically, morally, economically and socially these regimes have passed today their culmination point," he said in an address before the Union League Club.

"The only section of their policy which continues to give them new force and power," he added, "is their successes in international policy and in general European and world power policy."

Dr. Benes, who is a visiting professor at the University of Chicago, said the post-war period provided democracy with a great opportunity to flower and that it marked "a great progress in civilization."

He viewed the subsequent reaction to democracy in Europe as a natural development in political evolution and said that now the dictatorships' "mistakes, failures and inefficiency provide inevitably new reaction."

Conflict in the Far East and in Ethiopia, the occupation of Austria, the Spanish civil war and the Sudeten incidents of last fall brought European democracies almost to their lowest decline, he said.

"Here and there there may be another democratic collapse, but on the whole, the period of new reaction to democracy against the authoritarian regimes in Europe does now approach," he continued.

"Economically and financially the dictatorships, in contrast with the democratic states, use methods and means which push them toward inevitable downfall or violent social and economic revolution. They have to lower their standard of living systematically and gradually they get poorer and their population gets poorer, suffer privation and will suffer for a long time to come."

Europe's present fight for democracy and freedom, he said, would end sooner or later "in an inevitable and decisive victory."

DISPUTE IN DODGE PLANT SETTLED, 1400 TO RETURN

UAW Officers Report Work Will Be Resumed Monday in Chrysler Division.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, March 3.—Officers of the United Automobile Workers Union announced today that employees of the Dodge Forge and Truck Division of the Chrysler Corporation had reached an agreement in their dispute with the management and would return to work Monday.

About 1400 men were thrown out of work Wednesday as a result of a wage dispute involving production workers engaged on tool and die work.

Terms of the settlement were not disclosed.

REORGANIZATION

BILL MAY GO TO HOUSE MONDAY

objective "solely the reduction of agencies."

Emphasizing the need for reorganization of the executive branch of the Government, the report said there are approximately 135 departments and independent Federal agencies in existence today containing about 500 bureaus.

"This in itself is justification for a general reorganization that will result in grouping and consolidation of the executive agencies of the Government," the report declared.

Long Recommended.

Although the committee said governmental reorganization had been recommended by various Presidents for more than 50 years, "it has long since been determined that the Congress itself will not initiate the necessary specific legislation to bring about a general reorganization of the executive branch."

The measure in the form approved by the committee, by a vote of 5 to 3, is designed to meet most of the objections which resulted in the killing of a similar bill last spring.

It would let the President submit plans for reorganizing executive agencies to Congress and they would become operative in 60 days unless the Senate and House adopted a resolution disapproving them.

Complaining that the legislation had been railroaded through committee, the three Republican members who voted against it directed their opposition not so much at its contents as at the celerity with which the committee acted.

It was the first meeting of the committee this year, and it considered the bill two hours. The five Democratic committeemen said hearings were not necessary because Congress already had all the information it needed.

Under the bill, the President could abolish, transfer or rearrange Government bureaus and commissions in the interests of economy, efficiency, and elimination of overlapping functions. However, 16 agencies, mostly independent or quasi-judicial bodies, are specifically exempted from abolition or reshuffling.

U. S. MUST REDUCE SPENDING AT ONCE, HARRISON ASSERTS

ment, whether in the executive or legislative departments, will realize the serious fiscal situation confronting us, and counsel together and co-operate in mapping out a plan, and unflinchingly and without political consideration work toward that end, we can accomplish results that will bring hope and encouragement to our people and financial stability to our Government. If immediate and unified plans are not laid, and enormous and unprecedented expenditures are continued, with the national debt mounting, economic confusion
and chaos are inevitable.

"With world conditions unsettled,
with threats and rumors of war
being heard on every hand, American statesmanship demands that the credit of the United States
be preserved and our own house
be placed in order. I have no confidence in the economic philosophy that we must spend ourselves out of this economic disorder."

Choice of Alternatives.
In answer to a question, Harrison said that, faced with the alternative of increasing taxes or raising the $45,000,000,000 debt limitation,
he would favor increased taxes.

"But," he continued, "I don't know where I would begin." He said he believed that the national debt would not exceed the present limitation before July 1, 1940, and that any action to increase it could be delayed until the next Congress.

"I don't think we have reached the danger point so far as the national debt is concerned," he said,
"but there certainly is a sign out there to 'stop, look and listen.'"

He said he thought the nation's credit, as reflected by the low interest on its bonds and the premiums paid, is "all right."

Asked where a start could be made on reducing expenditures, Harrison said he thought the biggest cuts could be made in emergency agency appropriations. He said there had been some talk of attempting a blanket decrease of 10 per cent in all expenditures, but pointed out that this would be difficult in the regularly constituted departments.

"I just know that a lot of this emergency stuff could be cut greatly," he said. He recalled that he had voted with a majority in the Senate to trim $150,000,000 from the emergency relief fund requested by the President and said that, if the issue were raised again, he would vote the same way.

Harrison said that, in general, he was disappointed at the lack of headway made at this session of Congress toward reducing appropriations.

On $80,000,000,000 Income.

He told reporters he would like to see this country attain a "productive" income of $80,000,000,000 a year, the amount Roosevelt set as his aim in his message to Congress.

"If this country could get to an 80-billion dollar income, with the arms of taxes we now have reaching out, I think we would get things
in order and could begin paying off
the debt," he said.

He asserted, in reply to a question, that he did not think Roosevelt had indorsed in his message to Congress the economic theory
espoused by Chairman Marriner S.
Eccles of the Federal Reserve Board that Government spending would aid in reaching the desired
national income.

"That income must come from an increase in production and not from Government spending," he observed.

Harrison said he would like to see Democratic members of Congress meet to work out an economy plan, because the responsibility for decreasing expenditures must rest
on the Democratic party.

Asked if the President would be invited, Harrison replied: "I wouldn't mind the President's being in it."

"This thing is so serious," he declared, "that every element in the party, whether purged or unpurged, should get together on it."

He said that recent overtures by the Roosevelt administration "to business men were 'most gratifying to him' and expressed belief that, if business confidence could be restored, it would do much toward bringing the country up to a high level of prosperity."

Reaction to Statement.

Harrison's statement won immediate approval from Senators Byrd (Dem.), Virginia, and Vandenberg
(Rep.), Michigan. The latter pledged Republican co-operation in any program "that seeks to restore sanity to Federal finances."

Senator Adams (Dem.), Colorado,
said he favored a drastic cut in expenditures and probably would oppose any expansion of the national debt limitation.

Democratic Leader Barkley expressed belief that any attempt to make a flat 10 per cent cut in appropriations would not work.

"I don't see how relief can be applied," he said. He pointed out that a precipitous reduction in the WPA rolls must be made April 1
if Congress does not vote more funds.

What effect the Harrison statement may have on efforts to restore Democratic party harmony before the 1940 convention became a subject of speculation at the Capitol.

Beginning with the $150,000,000
cut in Roosevelt's relief recommendations and continuing through the current dispute over foreign policy, the Democrats have had many members on both sides of almost every important question before Congress.

dollar stable, and I think in the last five years we have succeeded fairly well."

At one point Morgenthau said that some foreign countries had attempted to circumvent the Johnson Act forbidding loans to nations in default on their debts to the United States.

"I refused to let them do it," he said.

No Mexican Silver Deal.

In response to a question by Byron (Dem.-Maryland), Morgent-thau said the Treasury had had no dealings with Mexico in regard to silver or anything else. He said the Treasury merely bought refined silver in New York or San Francisco and had no way of determining its source.

Byron said he was interested in the question because of its relation to exports. Morgenthau offered to supply figures on exports to Mexico and said it was his impression they had fallen off in the last year.

Smith, (Rep.-Ohio), asked how much silver had been acquired by the Treasury, and Archie Lochhead, director of the Treasury's stabilization fund, replied that the Treasury bought 283,100,000 ounces of newly mined domestic silver in the five years 1934 to 1938 and 1,904,300,000 ounces of foreign metal.

Prices for domestic silver varied from 64.64 cents an ounce to 77.57 cents, and the average for foreign was 52 cents, Lochhead said.

Declines Interpretation.
After ascertaining the President has discretionary authority to alter the content of the silver dollar, Smith asked why this had not been done.

"That's an authority that belongs to the President of the United States and I don't think it's up to me to interpret what he has not done," Morgenthau replied.

Smith asked the Secretary whether he considered the difference between the value of the content and monetary value of the silver dollar
as flat money.

"I don't understand the question," Morgenthau replied.

"Is it not true that silver has been inflated 200 per cent?" "I can't agree."

With reference to inflation, Mor-genthau said he didn't see "How you can talk of inflation" when the Bureau of Labor statistics wholesale price index is below the 1926 level.

"Has the silver program helped stabilize domestic prices," Smith asked. "Indirectly, I think so," Morgenthau answered.

"Has it helped China?" "The Chinese think so."

Taft Seeks to Cut Funds.
Earlier Senator Taft (Rep.), Ohio,
said the stabilization fund could be used to finance a European war
and said he would seek to curb its secret operations.

Taft announced he would ask that the fund be reduced to one-tenth its present size, saying "Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau testified that the Treasury never had used more than $200,000,000 of the fund."

He referred to Morgenthau's testimony yesterday before a Senate banking subcommittee.

"Business liberal." His job will be to help Hopkins find out what he can do to help business and also to tell business what it can do to promote Government-business cooperation, which has been promised in recent statements of President Roosevelt and several administration leaders.

Wood, who has been a business leader since he left the army 13 years ago, is expected to work especially on the problem of stimulating private investment in industry.

Wood is in Washington attending a Census Bureau meeting. He told reporters he had discussed the matter informally with Hopkins several weeks ago but had just returned from a Caribbean cruise and did not know Hopkins had given him the assignment. He declined to comment on business or Government or the relations between them, on the ground that he was out of touch with recent events.

Wood said he would return to Chicago within a few days and start catching up on the situation; then would return here for whatever work Hopkins wanted him to do.

The appointment was viewed here as another gesture of co-operation with business by the administration.

TELLS NLRB SHOP OFFERED $5 FOR NON-UNION GIRLS

Organizer's Sister Says
Forest City Plant Boss
Suggested Bounty for Machine Workers.

Organizer's Sister

By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer.
BLANCHE GRAYSON

Miss Blanche Grayson, a former employee of the Forest City Manufacturing Co., testified in a National Labor Relations Board hearing against the company today that she was offered $5 by a plant superintendent for every dependable non-union machine operator she could get to work for the firm.

The offer, she said, was made by Andy Sigmund. When she suggested recent graduates of the Hadley Vocational School, she continued, Sigmund told her, "Spitzer couldn't afford that; they would be young and might want to join the union."

Simon Spitzer is vice-president and treasurer of the company.

Miss Grayson said that in 1933, the year she went to work for the company, she joined a strike called by the union, but went back to work before the strike was over.

She was permitted to resume her job by Spitzer, she testified, on her promise that she would "remain loyal in case of future trouble."

Subsequently she was told by her instructor, Miss Norma McDonough, that it was against Spitzer's wishes for employees to accept union literature, she said; and later when she also was made an instructor Miss McDonough said: "Keep your ears open. If you hear any girl mention the union, tell me so I can tell Mr. Spitzer."

"Miss McDonough said they couldn't afford to have union girls because they caused trouble," Miss Grayson testified. She said she eventually quit her job last November because of "tormenting" by other employees who learned her sister was a member of the union.

"Suspicious Circumstances."

Miss Dorothea de Schweinitz, regional director of the NLRB, said to a Post-Dispatch reporter this morning that she had been in communication with the Washington office of the board because of "some suspicious circumstances" about the Forest City case, and that she might ask the Federal Bureau of Investigation to investigate the case after further conferences late today. She declined to say what the unusual circumstances were.

Her statement followed two reports made to police by employees of the company last night and this morning. Mrs. Ethel Spangler, surprise witness for the company Monday, who testified that representatives of the Labor Board and the union had asked witnesses to give false testimony, reported that two men in an automobile accosted her on the street and warned her, "You'd better get out of town."

Tells of Being Robbed.

Mrs. Gertrude Hoppe, 1818 Wagner place, another employee, reported that she also was accosted by two men in an automobile, near her home last night. She said they took papers and notes from her purse and a diamond ring which she valued at $200.

Mrs. Hoppe was mentioned in Miss Grayson's testimony today as the person for whom she was instructed to vote whenever an election was held for leader of the employees' association once maintained at the plant. Miss Grayson said that Miss McDonough told her that "Mr. Spitzer wanted Mrs. Hoppe elected," and that once a ballot not naming Mrs. Hoppe was torn up by Miss McDonough.

Yesterday's Testimony.

Miss Grayson's sister, Verma, an organizer and office employee of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, completed her recital yesterday of events which she said forced her to give up her job at the Forest City Co. last November.

She said girls she had asked to join the union when she was working at Forest City told her they were afraid to join lest they lose their jobs. Before quitting, Miss Grayson related, a forewoman told her it would do her no good to go to any court with her complaints against the company because there were 25 girls prepared to testify against her.

After relating that one girl told her she had promised Spitzer that she would not join the union, Miss Grayson said: "I'm a little reluctant to give names of girls to whom I talked because I was discriminated against and don't want them to be."

Forgets Details of Beating.

Miss Grayson said her sister, Blanche, and a friend at the factory told her she was a traitor to the company because she joined the union. Hyman G. Stein, attorney for the company, asked: "Isn't it a fact your sister wouldn't join because she and your mother had been attacked by the union during a strike in March, 1933?"

She replied, "That's not true."

Shown affidavits by her sister, and her mother, Mrs. Ola Grayson, relating how they were beaten on a street car when returning from work during a strike, Miss Grayson was unable to recall details of their return home on March 29, 1933, the day of the beating.

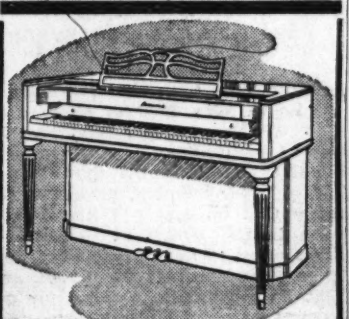

Miss Grayson did say, however, that "at home I was told on many occasions that I shouldn't take union literature and shouldn't join the union if I wanted to work at Forest City." She added her mother and sister said they were told not to take union literature when working at the factory at 1627 Washington avenue.

Stein offered to prove by the witness that while she was an employee of Forest City, between October and Nov. 15, 1933, the union carried on a county-wide boycott against the company, distributing literature to customers and soliciting them not to purchase from the firm. The offer of proof was denied.

Says Some Cursed Her.

Miss Grayson said that when other employees cursed and abused her for unionization work at Forest City, "I was so nervous I couldn't work, so I took shorthand notes on what they said to settle my nerves." When she quit her job, she said she was "a complete nervous wreck."

She said she had no ill will against the company, but it was brought out that she later sued the firm, Spitzer and several employees for $30,000 damages, a suit which she subsequently withdrew.

Hugh Sperry, NLRB field examiner, testified Miss Eva Lackey and Miss Artie Price, employees of the union, told him Nov. 16 they had reason to believe Miss Grayson was going to be harmed at the Forest City plant and probably would have her clothes torn off by other employees.

He said he telephoned Spitzer, told him charges had been filed against the company under the Wagner Act and added that it had come to his attention that workers were threatening and molesting an employee.

Spitzer told him that was impossible because his employees were "ladies" and would not hurt the girl, Sperry related. He said Spitzer told him he could protect the girl during working hours but he had no control over his employees at other times. It was understood by both of them, Sperry said, that Miss Grayson was the girl referred to, although neither mentioned her name.

CHAIN STORE TAX MEASURE REPORTED TO MISSOURI HOUSE

Bill Approved by Committee Carries Steeply Graduated Schedule of Levies.

By the Associated Press.
JEFFERSON CITY, March 3.—A bill to levy steeply graduated taxes on chain stores was approved for passage and sent to the House yesterday by the taxation committee.

The taxes would be assessed on the number of stores operated by a company in Missouri, but at a rate based on the total number in the chain, "whether operated in this State or not."

A chain with fewer than 10 stores would be taxed $10 for each store in the State, and the levies would range up to $550 for each store in Missouri operated by a chain which has 500 or more stores.

TWO VOTES QUALIFY MAN

FOR CANDIDATE AS MAYOR

WILL BE Opponent of Incumbent

Who Received 493 Ballots in Primary.

William Garber, who received two written-in votes for the mayoralty nomination in the primary Tuesday

at Jerseyville, Ill., will be the opponent of Robert E. Flynn, incumbent, who received 493 votes. Under the commission form of government which prevails in Jerseyville,

the two persons receiving the highest number of ballots qualify for the run-off at the April election.

Garber won in the primary over F.

R. Miller, who received only one vote.

Seeking nomination for commissioners without opposition on the printed ballot were the incumbents,

T. W. Kirby Jr., Leslie K. Jacoby,

Theodore Conklin and Carl E.

Thatcher. They received the requisite votes, but the name of William

Ballard Jr. was written in by 92

voters, qualifying him also. The election commission will determine

the procedure in case all five remain in the contest. An elimination method under consideration is the pulling of straws.

The vote in the primary was light,

less than 500 ballots being cast.

J. A. WOLF WANTS CITY

TO RETAIN PLAN BOARD

Loss of Commission and Engineer Would Be Disastrous,

He Says.

The loss of the City Plan Commission and its engineer, Harland

Bartholomew, at this time when the city is faced by the problems of slum clearance and neighborhood

rehabilitation, would be disastrous,

J. A. Wolf, of the Foundation for Neighborhood Improvement, said

today in a report urging low-cost,

subsidized housing for St. Louis.

"It is unthinkable that we can have either intelligent slum clearance or intelligent help of neighborhood rehabilitation with private capital without the guidance of an experienced city planner," Wolf

said.

"Matters of zoning, land assembly,

street widening and transportation

are major problems which require expert, unbiased advice. The St. Louis City Plan Commission

should have a full-time engineer

and an adequate budget for an efficient full-time staff.

"With an inadequate budget, our local commission is one of the best in the United States. Let us not permit it to be sabotaged. Our business men in particular and our citizens in general will support

building programs more wholeheartedly if they know that the City Plan Commission has a finger

in the civic pie."

Low-cost housing in the downtown area is necessary, Wolf said,

if St. Louis is to check the present exodus to the county. Already

40,000 fewer persons enter downtown St. Louis each day than 10 years ago. A continuation of this trend, he said, would paralyze St.

Louis business and dry up the air-

ready diminishing sources of municipal revenue.

The Real Estate Exchange properly objects to suburban housing projects, Wolf continued, because rentals are too high to aid the poor and because they offer direct competition to the private builder. However, he cited the neighborhood

bounded by Sixth, Twelfth, Franklin and Cass as typical of downtown areas that offer every convenience for living, except housing.

Here, he said, low cost, subsidized building would complement more expensive private investments and would keep thousands of families

within the city with resultant beneficial effects on business and municipal revenue.

Members of the Plan Commission

last month expressed doubt whether it should continue its functions

NEW YORK CITY SUBPENAS

ACCOUNTS OF AMERICAN BUND

Fritz Kuhn Called in Inquiry Into

Tax Returns of Four German

Organizations in U. S.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 3.—Finances

of the German-American Bund

whose national leader is Fritz Kuhn,

and of three allied organizations

were scrutinized today by Commissioners of Investigations William B.

Herlands.

Herlands issued 10 subpoenas, including one for Kuhn.

Ostensibly, the inquiry was calculated to determine whether the Bund had accounted properly for sales of writings, emblems and uniforms, in connection with the city's sales and business tax laws.

Named also in subpoenas were the German-American Business League, Inc.,

the German-American Front, Inc.,

and the A. V. Publishing Corporation,

Inc., which publishes the weekly

Deutscher Wecker and Bechachter, organ of the Bund.

Although Mayor LaGuardia said

the investigation was routine, the scope of the subpoenas was wide.

All membership books, subscription

and mailing lists, bank accounts,

bank statements and canceled

checks, were subpoenaed.

DIRECTED VERDICT

ARGUED IN SPY CASE

Closed Session of Court Ordered by U. S. Judge at Los Angeles.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, March 3.—United States District Judge Ralph Jenney, hearing Government charges that a formal naval intelligence officer and two Russian subjects engaged in peacetime espionage, ordered a closed court session today while the defense presented its arguments for a directed verdict of acquittal.

Isaac Pach, one of the attorneys representing Hafis Salich, naturalized-American who was assigned to the intelligence service by the Berkley (Cal.) Police Department; Mikhail Gorin, Russian travel bureau agent, and his wife Natasha, announced the arguments would be based on the following contentions:

1. None of the naval intelligence reports introduced as evidence contain data relating to national defense.

2. Merely because an officer of the navy may designate certain information to be "confidential," an employee's violation of such confidence does not make the latter guilty under the Espionage Act.

3. Neither an officer of the navy nor the jury in this case should determine what relates to national defense.

A demand by another defense attorney, Willard Stone Jr., that certain documents which he named be produced by the intelligence service was denied by Judge Jenney when Lieut. Henri de B. Claiborne, assistant chief of the service, Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Swanwick, declared release of the matter "contrary to the public interest."

Stone specifically sought presentation of reports dealing with:

"Activities of Russian engineers at the Douglas Aircraft Corporation factory (at Santa Monica, Cal.)."

"Activities in Los Angeles of a Soviet Commissar for Heavy Industry."

"Activities of vice-consuls of the U. S. S. R. in Los Angeles."

"Activities of a summer camp in New York State for children of Soviet citizens in America."

The list of reports which the Government accuses Salich of taking from naval files and giving to the Gorins was lengthened with the addition of documents dealing with such things as the nearness of Japanese steamers to the United States fleet anchored at San Pedro, the photographing of American warships from Japanese craft through telescopic lenses and heavy purchases of commercial aerial photographs of harbor areas, industrial centers and airports.

OLIVE ST. ROAD UNDERPASS TO BE STARTED IN 6 MONTHS

Virtually All Details Worked Out in Conference at City Hall.

Work on the $420,000 undertaking to eliminate two adjacent Wabash boulevards, northeast to the eastern end of Olive Street road is expected to begin within six months, it was announced today yesterday at the City Hall in a conference among representatives of the railroad, the city, the county, the State and University City.

As approved yesterday, the plan differs only in minor details from the one approved last year by the City Plan Commission. It provides for an underpass to extend Skinker boulevard northeast to the junction of Maple and Hodiamont avenues. The Wabash tracks will be raised 6 1/2 feet at the Skinker-Olive crossing and 5 1/2 feet at the Maple crossing.

President Baxter L. Brown of the long accounting and engineering construction cost would be about $200,000 and the remaining $100,000 would be spent for acquisition of land. The Federal Government, he said, has allotted $200,000 for construction. The additional $200,000 for the underpass will be provided by St. Louis and University City. The two cities will put up the money for land acquisition, with St. Louis supplying most of it from 1923 bond issue funds.

18 ARE INDICTED, ACCUSED OF CEMETERY LOT FRAUDS

Alleged to Have Sold Plots, Guaranteeing Profits of 10 to 200 Per Cent on Investments.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 3.—Seventeen men and a woman were indicted by the Federal grand jury today on charges of using the mails to defraud hundreds of persons. The indictment, returned by the grand jury of 100 to 200 per cent on investments in cemetery lots.

The 91-page indictment named most of the officers and sales personnel of the first Commonwealth Trusts, a Chicago organization the Government contends sold $100,000 worth of lots in an intensive four-month campaign.

A. Braley Eben, Assistant United States District Attorney, who presented the case to the grand jury, said the grand jury was told of 1000 lots it owned in the Crow Hill Cemetery, a legitimately conducted enterprise at Tinsburg, O.

The indictment stated the Commonwealth Trusts bought the lots for $57 apiece and resold them for $100 apiece. Eben said was alleged to have been accompanied by a guarantee that the lots could be resold within two years for $450 or $500.

Three OZARK COUNTIES SEEK FEDERAL WOLF TRAPPER

Laclede, Texas and Wright Farmers Decide to Employ Government Man to Protect Livestock.

By the Associated Press.

HOUSTON, Mo., March 3.—Plans were advanced today for employment of a Government wolf trapper to work in Laclede, Texas and Wright counties, after a mass meeting yesterday at Plato, near the corner of the three Ozark counties.

The meeting, conducted by David L. Wilder of the Missouri Conservation Commission, was attended by the County Judges, farm agents and farmers.

George P. Smith Jr., farm agent of Texas County, said farmers have suffered heavy losses from wolves that kill sheep, hogs and calves. He said many farmers consider the condition the worst in years.

The three county courts will cooperate in financing the Federal trapper.

UNITED AIRLINES AGREEMENT MADE WITH 1500 EMPLOYEES

New System Set-up for Mechanical Forces Eight-Hour Day, Six-day Week.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., March 3.—Tom Marshall, director of personnel for United Airlines, said today a new working agreement affecting nearly 1500 mechanical department employees from coast to coast has been signed here.

The agreement, Marshall said, sets up a new system through which employees may be promoted, establishes an employee grievance committee authorized to negotiate for corrections directly with the management, and fixes an eight-hour day and six-day week.

L. A. McGowan, president of the airline's association, said the agreement was accepted by a unanimous vote of the employee representatives after three days of negotiation.

CARDINAL O'CONNELL

LIKES CHOICE OF POPE

Forecasts 'Remarkable Humility' for Pius XII — 'Humble and Clever.'

By the Associated Press.

ROME, March 3.—William Cardinal O'Connell of Boston, speaking with enthusiasm, forecast today a "remarkable pontificate" for Pope Pius XII. He gave his views shortly before going to Vatican City for the College of Cardinals' third ceremony of homage to the new Pope.

The Cardinal was wearing the scarlet robe prescribed for these rites. "The Holy Father," he said, "is truly a beautiful character; a man of great intelligence and wide experience. He is humble and he is clever. He possesses great force and great restraint. He truly may be said to be a living saint. That is something of great importance in these troublous times."

He forecasted for a remarkable pontificate, something like that of Leo XIII.

He indicated that Pius XII's qualifications were so outstanding that he was almost a unanimous choice of the Cardinals on the third ballot yesterday.

After referring to the speed of the election, Cardinal O'Connell observed that "this indicates the most complete unanimity on the part of the Sacred College. It is not possible to say more than that."

Blessing for the U. S.

He related that, when he advanced to the papal throne to pay his first visit, he asked for a special blessing for the people of Boston and the entire United States.

"With all my heart I bless them and will always pray for them," the new Pope replied, placing hands over his heart. "They all were so kind to me when I visited them."

Cardinal O'Connell recalled his own long acquaintance with Eugene Pacelli, whom he had known while rector at the North American College in Rome when the new Pope was an ecclesiastical student.

The Cardinal said that his own health was so "excellent" that it even surprised him. The prayers of the people back home, both Catholic and Protestant, and yet made plans for returning to Boston, but would go as soon as possible after Pius' coronation.

Denis Cardinal Dougherty of Philadelphia said in a similar statement yesterday that the election of Cardinal Pacelli would be a "universal satisfaction," that "from his early manhood he had been an outstanding ecclesiastic and long ago it was predicted he would become Pope of this church."

"New Cardinals to Be Named."

The naming of two new Cardinals for the United States is considered as possibly one of the early actions of Pope Pius XII. The new pontiff will call his first consistory soon to fill some, at least, of the vacancies in the College of Cardinals. One of these vacancies resulted from the death of Patrick Cardinal Hayes of New York last Sept. 4 and another from his own election as Pope.

Appointment of a new Archbishop of New York, a seat vacated by the death of Cardinal Hayes, was expected to receive the early attention of the Pope.

Vatican circles consider Monsignor Stephen Donahue, auxiliary bishop of New York, an outstanding candidate for the post. He has been in charge of the New York diocese since Cardinal Hayes' death.

Others mentioned are Monsignor Edward Mooney, Archbishop of Detroit; Monsignor Francis J. Spellman, auxiliary Archbishop of Boston, and the Rev. John Nicholas, Archbishop of Cincinnati.

Wider Representation Favored.

The three American Cardinals, O'Connell, Dougherty and Mundelein, attending the conclave for the first time as a full group, would have an excellent opportunity to inform the new Pope of the feeling of several counties of America that he should give them wider representation in the college.

The last American, George Cardinal Mundelein, was elevated to the purple on March 24, 1924. Since then United States Catholics have increased by some 3,000,000 to 21,500,000.

East Side Negroes Plead Guilty—Another Sentenced for Stealing Revolver.

By the Associated Press.

Three Negroes, who had committed a series of holdups on the East Side last January, pleaded guilty today of robbing a truck driver of many hundreds of dollars, and were sentenced to one to 20 years in the penitentiary by City Judge Ralph Cook in East St. Louis.

They were Horace Allen and Sam Chandler, both 26 years old, of East St. Louis, and Winifred Williams, 20, of Brooklyn. Six other robbery charges against them were dismissed with leave to re-arrest.

Denby Wright, 17, of 2202 Bond avenue, East St. Louis, and Howard Prince, 18, of 3330 McCasland avenue, East St. Louis, pleaded guilty of burglary and were sentenced from one year to life in the penitentiary. They obtained five packages of cigarettes and 11 in pennies in the burglary. Devorn McCasley, Negro, was sentenced to one year to life when he pleaded guilty of the theft of a revolver.

BILL TO CONSOLIDATE STATE APPELLATE COURTS OFFERED

16-Judge Supreme Court Proposed in Judicial Council's Amendment.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 3.—Consolidation of all Missouri appellate courts into one 16-judge Supreme Court was proposed today in a constitutional amendment introduced by Senator Phil M. Donnelly (Dem.), Lebanon.

The measure, sponsored by the State Judicial Council, would abolish the Courts of Appeals at Springfield, Kansas City and St. Louis. The three judges from each of these courts, however, would be added to the seven-member State Supreme Court, which would assume the jurisdictions now held by the courts of appeals.

Election of the nine appellate judges would remain on a sectional basis, with the other seven Supreme Court Judges elected at large, as now.

"The Judicial Council believes this plan would expedite action on appeals," Donnelly said, "and eliminate delays which are now keeping the higher courts far behind in their dockets."

The proposal would be voted on at the next general election.

HOUSE COMMITTEE ENDS RAILROAD RATE HEARING

Chairman Lea Indicates It Will Make No Recommendations Differentials.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—The House Interstate Commerce Committee abruptly ended its hearings on railroad rate differentials today and indicated it would make no recommendations for legislative action.

Chairman Lea (Dem.), California, announced the committee would start Tuesday to take testimony from representatives of water carriers on the "whole transportation problem." He said testimony would embrace proposals for coordination between water and land transportation systems and their rates.

"I think the hearing just concluded has accomplished the purpose of those asking for it by drawing attention of the public to rate differentials," Lea said. "Nearly all witnesses have testified any adjustment necessary could be made by the Interstate Commerce Commission."

SENATE INQUIRY INTO NAVAL APPOINTMENT BY ROOSEVELT

Issue Is Legality of Promoting Man Not on Board's List to Rear Admiral.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 3.—The Senate Naval Committee began an inquiry today into the nomination of Capt. Harry A. Stuart, director of naval petroleum reserves, to be a Rear Admiral.

President Roosevelt nominated Stuart, whose home is in Rockville, Md., rear wife of the late John Stuart, who was on the navy's eligible selection list.

Chairman Walsh (Dem.), Massachusetts, said a two-hour discussion in executive session developed "some differences of opinion" as to the legality of the nomination, but expressed no opinion on the propriety of the committee was "favorably disposed" to approve it.

Senator Gillette (Dem.), Iowa, said he believed the President had the constitutional right to appoint Stuart. He questioned, however, the wisdom of establishing a precedent to succeed the late Julian C. Harvey, and reappointed Lambert B. Walther general counsel.

The company, established as the German Mutual Life Insurance Co. in 1857, is the oldest in Missouri. Its name was changed in 1919. Sly, who started in the insurance business in 1919, became superintendent of agencies for St. Louis Mutual in 1932 and later was elected a director.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 3.—William Levy, Negro sentenced to life in the Missouri penitentiary for first degree murder, escaped last night from the home of F. E. Williams, member of the State Penitentiary Board, where he worked as a trusty.

He was sentenced in Sept. 9, 1921, from Jackson County.

SEWER CONTRACT AWARDED

By the Associated Press.

The contract for construction of a sewer under North Market street from the municipal docks to Ninth street has been awarded to L. J. Stiers, whose bid of $138,092 was lowest of four received by the city, it was announced today.

The job will be financed by a bond issue and a 45 per cent PWA grant. L. A. Pettus, chief engineer of sewers and paving, said the city's estimate was exceeded by the bid because of increased cost of

60,000 CHINESE RESIST DRIVE IN NORTH KIANGSU

Japanese Direct Pincer Movement Against Two Brigades and Large Force of Guerrillas.

BOMBING PLANES AND TANKS USED

Mikado's Troops Report Capture of Huikow, West of Hankow, in Campaign in Hupeh Province.

By the Associated Press.
SHANGHAI, March 3.—Three strong columns of Japanese troops, supported by bombing planes and tanks, were engaged in a pincer movement in Northern Kiangsu Province today against Chinese forces estimated at 60,000.

The Chinese were the fifty-seventh and eighty-ninth brigades of the Central Chinese army, which dug in northwest of Shanghai after last summer's defeat along the Lunghai railway, and a large force of guerrillas. The area is in nominally Japanese-occupied territory some hundreds of miles east of the Central China front.

Other Japanese forces driving westward in Hupeh Province reported occupation of Huikow and moved against Shayang, 100 miles west of Hankow and 30 miles north-east of Shensi, an important Yangtze River port which is one of their objectives.

City of Hwaian Occupied.
The campaign along the Kiangsu-Shantung provincial boundary was believed to be directed in part against Haichow, the only port north of Shanghai still in Chinese hands. The Japanese already had occupied the inland city of Hwaian, 200 miles northwest of Shanghai. No word has been received of 14 Americans at Hwaian.

The Chinese Government continued its preparations to evacuate 300,000 civilian residents from Chungking, temporary capital, to escape the danger of continued Japanese air raids. The plan was reported to call for removal of the civilians, two-thirds of the population, by March 11. Underground bomb shelters are being built for those who remain in the city, jammed between main lines of the upper Yangtze and difficult to defend against air attack. Those leaving were expected to go farther west.

Government banks also were reported to be preparing to move to safer areas. The Government was concerned over the Japanese offensive in Hupeh Province, which many Chinese consider an increasing threat to thus far unconquered Western China areas.

Agreement on Policing Colony.
Japanese and Shanghai International Settlement authorities announced tonight an agreement ending their dispute over policing of the settlement. The dispute had caused apprehension that the Japanese might try to occupy the area. The Japanese had demanded a share in the policing of the settlement to help suppress increasing terrorism. The accord provides for co-operation between settlement police and the Japanese gendarmerie for prevention of terrorism, effective control of Chinese entering the settlement from the Whangpoo River and Soochow Creek, the searching of Chinese passing through the settlement, and an additional number of Japanese police on the settlement force.

CAMPAIGNLESS CAMPAIGNER

West Frankfort Candidate, 78, Wins Without Soliciting One Vote.
WEST FRANKFORT, Ill., March 3.—Seventy-nine-year-old A. M. Crim's campaign for the office of Police Magistrate was mildly revolutionary, but it worked. He did not solicit a single vote. He stayed in his office. He did not want the voters "to see too much of me."

He received more votes than any of the other 69 candidates in the municipal primary. His nearest opponent got about half as many.

ENGINEER REPORTS ILLINOIS LEADS IN CROSSING ACCIDENTS

Such Mishaps Increasing Despite Reduction in Number of Grade Intersections.
CHAMPAIGN, Ill., March 3.—Arthur Benesch, a State highway engineer, said today Illinois led all other states in the number of grade crossing accidents.

Addressing the annual conference of highway engineers, Benesch said grade crossing fatalities were increasing despite the elimination of 300 of the State's 18,000 crossings.

ST. LOUIS, ILL.

CARDS IN COLORLESS WORKOUT; MARCUM REPORTS TO BROWNS THREE

WARNEKE JOINS
BUT 13 BIRDS
MISS PRACTICE

Catching Situation Continues Serious With Owen Still Out — Weiland and Paul Dean Arrive.

By J. Roy Stockton
Of the Post-Dispatch Sports Staff.
ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 3.—Lon Warneke, the Arkansas Humming Bird, joined the Cardinals last night and was in uniform today for his first workout of 1939, but with Johnny Mize and Joe Medwick missing and no catcher of important major league experience in camp, the Redbirds still don't look like even a good healthy shadow of their former Gas House selves.

Weiland, Myers, Adams, King, Shoun and Paul Dean had arrived this morning, leaving only six absentees. They are holdouts Medwick, Owen and Epps and Terry Moore, Johnny Mize and Herman Franks. Cold weather struck camp overnight.

Usually on the opening days of spring training the long-time sluggers furnish much of the interest and give the spectators most of their thrills by lambasting baseballs over far-away fences. With no Medwick and no Mize there has been no slugging worthy of the name, even against the fat pitching that marks early training hitting drills, and so the first day of work for the Redbirds was a bit colorless. Then, too, the absence of Owen, who is holding out for $15,000, emphasizing the weakness of the catching department for with Mickey Sulking in his tent, Herb Bremer, who hit only .219 in 50 games last season, is the only receiver in camp who ever stood behind the plate with a major league hitter at bat.

Strange Addition.
Branch Rickey, general manager of the Cardinals, who can put two and two together and get the most surprising vistas of rarest pigment scene, made a speech yesterday to the effect that Owen was playing right into the hands of the Cardinals. It was a bit difficult to follow Rickey, that is, a bit more difficult than usual, but when it was all ironed out and distilled he meant that Owen's absence emphasized the fact that the Cardinals needed catching and also gave other young men on the roster a chance to show what they could do.

Inasmuch as it is conceded generally that they can't do very much, Rickey was asked rather bluntly, and even in some rudeness, if the Cardinals were prepared to go out and buy another catcher. Rickey looked a bit pained over his academic glasses and said that if there were a catcher on the market the Cardinals would be very happy to purchase him. But in view of that statement, it is difficult to reason, with Rickey, how Owen is playing into anybody's hands by holding out, inasmuch as he is the best the Cardinals have, good or bad.

Except for the absence of the two members of the team's famous one-two punch, one for no good reason and Medwick because he wants more cookies and Sam Breadon want to put in the oven for him, and the fact that only 20 out of 33 players of roster record participated, the opening day's workout was all right. The sun was shining in big league fashion from a fairly cloudless sky, and even a gusty wind didn't bother the boys. And at the finish Manager Blades said he was satisfied with the progress. Ray spent much of his time cautioning the athletes against the dangers of sore shins, but found time to nudge an occasional employee into more energetic activity.

Featuring the day's action was the appointment of Pepper Martin as captain of the Cardinals, a move of many purposes. In the first place, it made Pepper forget temporarily that he had been despoiled of his guitar and his Mudcat companions, as far as hillbilly music is concerned. Then, it was designed, too, probably, to inspire the World Horse to run a bit wilder during the remaining years of his Cardinal life.

Absentee Athletics.
The catching situation was made more something when Sam Narrown went through the two workouts with a right thumb that looked like an abused cucumber. It seems he fractured the thumb three or four years ago, neglected to have it set properly, and now whenever a baseball hits it too hard the thumb swells up like a hot dog under full steam, and Narrown has to take to the bench. The thumb is beyond hope for surgery, which probably means that Narrown won't do much more important playing of baseball.

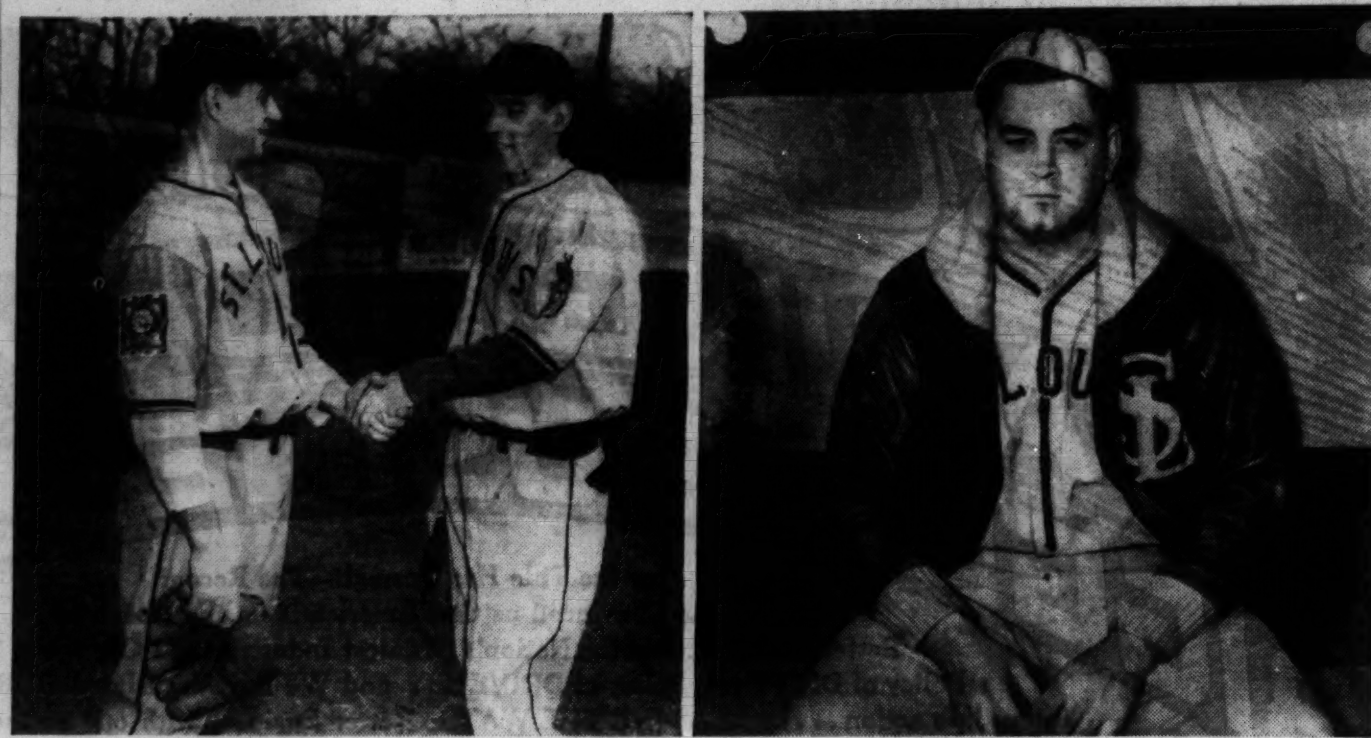

However, there's always Herman Franks and Don Padgett and Herb Bremer, and, of course, Arnold Malcolm (Mickey) Owen.

GERST IS ELECTED
HONORARY CAPTAIN
AT WASHINGTON U.

Bob Gerst, guard and three-year letter man of the Washington University basketball team, yesterday was elected honorary captain for the season of 1938-1939. Gerst was a star at Beaumont High before entering college. He also is a pitcher on the baseball team.

It is the custom at Washington to elect sport captains after the season.

New Faces On Browns' Hurling Corps

Fred Haney, new manager of the Browns, hopes that the trio of Emil Bildilli (left), Louis Tost and Bob Bergin will add to his pitching strength for the 1939 campaign. The two southpaws are shaking hands lefthanded. Bildilli, up before, had an 18-4 record with Springfield last year; Tost finished with 11-16 at Hollywood, while Bergin formerly starred in high school and municipal circles here.

GUNNERS GIVE
DENNY COCHRAN
YEAR CONTRACT

By Harold Flachsbar

Denny Cochran's football playing days in St. Louis aren't over yet. The big name in St. Louis University athletics for the last two seasons will be ineligible collegiately next season because he has completed for three seasons, but late yesterday Cochran signed a one-year contract to play professional football with the St. Louis Gunners.

Although drafted and sought by the Pittsburgh Pirates of the National League, Cochran chose to play with Gunners because he has two more years of studies to complete in the University Law School, and besides, he wanted to play in his home town where he gained greatest fame with the Billikens last season.

Both the new player and General Manager J. W. (Bud) Yates of the Gunners seemed well pleased with the terms of the contract, which were not divulged. As Yates jokingly remarked, "It gives the Gunners an insurance, even if Davey O'Brien doesn't sign with us."

Star of Basketball Team.
Cochran's collegiate athletic career ended several weeks ago, when, after starting all season on the Billikens basketball team, he suddenly was no longer a member of the squad. Coach Jack Sterrett, who was dismissed from St. Louis U. to gain a tie with the heavily-favored Washington University Bears in their city championship game. All season it was Denny's passing and punting as well as running which made the Billikens look as good as they did.

Now weighing 182 pounds and standing six feet, one inch, Denny thinks he will put on weight before the Gunners start practice Aug. 15. He played left halfback in college and it is likely he will play the same position with the Gunners.

From East Side High.
Before coming to St. Louis U., Cochran played one year of football with Illinois Wesleyan, and for that reason is not eligible for more than two seasons with the Billikens. He also played basketball last year and threw the javelin in track, but this spring had not intended to go out for the track team.

In high school Cochran starred at East St. Louis U. athlete on the Gunner roster, which also includes the names of Carl Kane, back, and Dick Fitzgerald, end. Yates said 16 Gunners are now signed for the 1939 season and Milan Creighton, former coach of the Chicago Cardinals, is sitting "in the driver's seat" for the position as coach. "Chile" Walsh has also applied for the job.

Sectional semifinals will be played tonight at Wood River and Belleville as East Side schools work their way toward the Illinois state-wide interscholastic basketball championship. Tonight's schedule: At Wood River: Granite City vs. Edwardsville; Wood River vs. Alton.

At Belleville: Belleville vs. Collinsville; O'Fallon vs. East St. Louis.

Last night, Wood River scored a rout over Madison, 41 to 11, and Alton won from Venice, 24 to 16, in the Wood River games. East St. Louis advanced by a score of 29 to 22 over Dupu, while O'Fallon stepped ahead at the expense of Freeburg, 44 to 23.

COURTNEY
COLUMN

The Yanks and the Tanks.

"WHAT to do about the Yanks" is the big problem in the American League. And "what to do about the Tanks" is another American League riddle. For even as the Yanks dominate their baseball rivals the Tanks are the supermen of the American Professional Football League.

And thereby appends a narrative. We'll let August W. Jaude, the "a.g.e." (or backer if you prefer) of the St. Louis Gunners tell about it.

But first, meet Mr. Jaude, who although he owns one of the largest laundries in the city doesn't look a day over 35 and is a real go-getter.

He has four children, belongs to many clubs and is a thorough, going churchman. He has even been known to leave in the middle of a Gunners' football game in order to attend meetings of church organizations.

CONTRARY TO THE USUAL run of sponsors of football and baseball clubs he loves publicity like a mouse loves rat poison. Instead of naming his team and labeling their uniforms after his laundry Mr. Jaude has forborne to advertise his business and has hidden himself and his work so effectively that few persons know he is a club owner.

He furnished the sinews of war for a club that lost plenty of jack last season. And he's still putting up. Witness the fact that he has just signed Denny Cochran, St. Louis University star, in the face of competition from National League clubs.

Jaude is so interested in the boys who play for him that he has financed several of them during the winter and has a job-finding system for others. His men are all card-indexed as to their background, their colleges and the kind of work at which they specialize.

Whenever his business friends mention a vacancy he thumbs his card-index, finds the right guy and tries to land him the job. And that leads us right up to this story:

Building the Right Setup.
"WE'RE TRYING TO BUILD a winning professional team in St. Louis, but we won't succeed until we can match the setup of the Louisville Tanks," Jaude observed to this writer.

"The Tanks have a great team, as you know. They were better than most of the National League eleven. They beat the Pittsburgh Bears, the Whizzer White and all, 17 to 6. They were really a bit too strong for the league."

"That's because they have the right setup. They have two wealthy sponsors in Louisville, the American Radiator Co. and the Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Co. Many of the Tank players are employed by these companies out of season and thus the promoters are able to keep their organization intact. "I intend to have a setup of our own that will keep us a going concern. We want to hold our own. We did not worry about last year but we spent most of our efforts and money building for this year. We have done fairly well. We have succeeded in keeping 11 of our last season stars in line and already have 16 players under contract for next year. We already are laying out our lines for more. We have working agreements with the Bears, the Cardinals and the Cleveland Rams to get their released players, with a clause which says that they can't be recalled during the season."

"We have arrangements prepared for starting training next August and the squad will spend a month in the country getting in condition under a new coach. No, we haven't named him yet. Five men are under consideration. We think we will interest St. Louis football fans more than ever before with our 1939 team."

SOCCER PLAYOFF SCHEDULED FOR SUNDAY AGAIN

By Dent McSkimming

The transfer of Bill Schuler, leading goal getter, back to his center forward berth may do the Schumachers a lot of good in their Municipal Soccer Association play-off with the German Sport Club at Fairground Sunday. But, the German club's co-managers, Oscar Mossman and Nick Job, will try to suppress Schuler's scoring punch by switching halfbacks to block his path.

Schuler was used at inside right when these two teams last met, and he was effectively smothered by the Germans' left halfback, Bill Ortmann.

"If Schuler opens at center forward, as reported, we will move Ortmann to center halfback," said Mossman today. "He knows how to cover Schuler and that seems to be about all that is needed to beat the Schumachers."

Ortmann, a veteran of many Muncy soccer seasons and many a scrap in which fists were used, has never been regarded as a smart player, but his aggressiveness has upset many a more skillful forward. Several years ago, he was indefinitely suspended for fighting and his return to competition near the close of this season surprised the fans.

The Muncy program at Grounds 2, Fairground Park, Sunday, is the same as that originally scheduled Feb. 19 and twice postponed. Three games will be played, starting at 10:30 a. m.

Eastern Play Delayed.
Eastern soccer followers expect the winner of the Brookhattan vs. Scots-American game to go on to win the national title. Rain and snow have caused repeated postponements so that the schedule now is:

Sunday, March 5.—Brookhattan of New York vs. Scots-Americans of Kearney, N. J. (quarterfinal round).
March 19.—Eastern semifinals: Winner Brookhattan-Scots game vs. St. Mary's of Brooklyn; Philadelphia Germans vs. Lusitania of Cambridge, Mass.

Soldan is the defending champion, having won last year by a score of 43 to 38 over Roosevelt. Competition tonight starts at 8 p. m.

Two 1938 CHAMPIONS ENTERED IN OZARK A. A. U. BOXING MEET
With the deadline for entries set for tomorrow midnight, 34 contestants have filed for the annual Ozark A. A. U. boxing championships, which start Tuesday night at the Alhambra Grotto, Grand and Magnolia. Of these, only one is considered likely to scratch. He is Milton Jones, who is scheduled to return Friday night for the semifinals of the Midwestern championships in Chicago.

Of the nine clubs which have entered boys, the Slaughter A. C., with nine scrappers, tops the list. The Creve Coeur A. C. has entered four.

Heading the list of entries are two champions of last year. Leon Haire, who won both the Ozark A. A. U. and Golden Gloves titles last year as a bantamweight, will attempt to make another "double" this year in the featherweight division. Leon recently captured the Golden Gloves crown in the 126-pound class. James Gathright will be defending his welterweight title won last year at the expense of Charles Henricks by a technical knockout in the second round.

Other outstanding amateurs entered in the coming championships include Austin "Skeets" Gilliam, Hercules welterweight, who seemed to be on the road to victory in the 1938 tourney only to suffer a broken hand in the semifinals; and Lou Wallala, who has been a contender in all of the major tournaments during the past five years and who has reached the finals in five of the seven tournaments since 1936.

Joe McCarthy Reports Signing Of DiMaggio
By the Associated Press.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 3.—Manager Joe McCarthy of the New York Yankees today announced Joe DiMaggio had signed his 1939 contract. McCarthy made his announcement after a telephone conversation with Ed Barrow in New York. DiMaggio is due to report here Monday along with other members of the second squad and presumably is en route to camp now.

While no figures were announced, it is believed DiMaggio signed for $27,000, a $2000 increase over his 1938 salary. His signing leaves only Red Rolfe, Joe Gordon and Frankie Crosetti as holdouts.

Miss Betz Beats Norma Taubele
NEW YORK, March 3.—Pauline Betz of Los Angeles, went into the final round of the women's national indoor singles tennis championship today by ousting top-seeded Norma Taubele of New York, 1934 titleholder, 6-1, 6-3.

The 19-year-old California girl, playing for the first time on boards, was on top all the way.

In tomorrow's final Miss Betz will meet Helen Bernhard, two-time indoor girls' champion, who beat Millicent Hirsch, 6-0, 7-5, in an all-New York semifinal. Miss Bernhard's game was far too severe for Miss Hirsch's chop-stroke style.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., March 3.—After numerous conferences here the past two days, Russ Van Atta, St. Louis left-hander, ended his holdout today.

Van Atta placed his name on a contract after a conference with Charles De Witt, traveling secretary of the Browns, and Ray Cahill, chief of scouts.

Other holdouts continued to stay away as the Browns went through their second day of spring training here yesterday in what was almost a re-run of Wednesday's activity. The sun was far more generous with its rays today, and Van Atta started an hour later, giving the batters a long workout through mid-day.

Two More Arrive.
While the boys who are still reluctant about placing their autograph on the dotted line of a contract remained quiet, the squad was jumped by two. John Marcum, reported early in the afternoon, and just before the sun went down Elton Walkup registered in at the hotel. Both are signed.

Fred Johnson, one of the four who held their peace, disposed of in town and holding conference with the bosses now and then. Buck Newsom, Howard Mills and Billy Sullivan are still A. W. O. L.

Woody Bell, who has played a good game for Texas A. and M. College in the Southwest, was in town and holding conference with the bosses now and then. Buck Newsom, Howard Mills and Billy Sullivan are still A. W. O. L.

A pitcher named Bill Higgs, from New Jersey, showed up with a plea that he be allowed a tryout. He has his own expense to San Antonio, and is paying his expenses while in camp, until such a time that the Browns can determine whether he is wanted.

Some of the coaches, though, are able to restrain themselves and draw technical fouls for their line examinations.

George Whitelaw Jr., with 18 wins and 8 A. Morris, was the Country Day forwards, topped scorers for the evening. Roy Schneider of C. B. C. and Walter Tinsley of Wellston led the "A" batters with 11 points.

Eureka and Fairview, paired against each other tonight, are old rivals. Fairview finished second in county race and the only league coach Ned Crain's boys lost to Aleck Burgess' champion Eureka team.

Handicap Bowling TOURNEY LEADERS ARE UNDISTURBED

Dodgers Ask Landis to Look Into Mungo's Activities to See If He Violates Special Contract
By the Associated Press.

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 3.—The winter activities of Van Lingle Mungo, the Brooklyn Dodgers' pitcher who is, as usual, a holdout, may be the subject of an investigation by Commissioner K. M. Landis.

Larry MacPhail, the club's general manager, filed a complaint with Landis today in which he said Mungo had been playing baseball and acting as an instructor in Joe Stripp's baseball school in violation of an agreement he made in his contract with the club not to participate in athletics during the off season.

The Dodgers, in training here, have got nowhere in their annual

Other holdouts continued to stay away as the Browns went through their second day of spring training here yesterday in what was almost a re-run of Wednesday's activity. Woody Bell, who has played a good game for Texas A. and M. College in the Southwest Conference the past few years, once hitting a home run which won the championship for the Aggies in this final game, was in uniform.

Manager Hanes, Scout Ray Cahill and coaches are giving the kid brother of "Beau" Brownie out-fitter, a look with the possibility he may be signed to a contract. He is an outfielder. Beau was in camp today, moving over from his home in New Braunfels, 40 miles away. He was in uniform and took part in the Thursday drills, packing a healthy punch with the contract.

He is in good shape after a winter of golf in Texas.

A pitcher named Bill Higgs, from New Jersey, showed up with a plea that he be allowed a tryout. Hanes paid his own expense to San Antonio, and is paying his expenses while in camp, until such a time that the Browns can determine whether he is wanted.

—“Nine, Ten!” Italy’s Champion Passes

Italy's light heavyweight champion, Domenico Ceccarelli, who had stayed the link with John Henry Lewis, Billy Conn and other top notchers, wound up on the floor in his match with Archie Moore at the Coliseum last night. He is shown on his back as Referee Harry Cook completed the ten count in the first round. Ceccarelli weighed 167 pounds, Moore 158.

Archie Moore Knocks Out Ceccarelli in First, Wants Conn or Lee as Next Foe

By W. J. McGoogan. Archie Moore, St. Louis Negro middleweight boxer, has ambitions today after his one-round knockout of Domenico Ceccarelli, Italian light heavyweight, last night at the Coliseum. Moore is anxious to take on some of the big game of his division. He seeks as his next opponent Billy Conn, Pittsburgh, or perhaps Glen Lee, Nebraska middleweight.

And Moore's supporters think he is ready for anybody. Ceccarelli showed his wares here once before, a year ago when he dropped a split decision to heavyweight Buddy Knox and Domenico was hailed as a boxer of sufficient merit to give Moore a test.

A left hook to the body, however, dropped Domenico for a nine-count and Moore's right-hand up-percut to the chin finished him in 2 minutes 24 seconds of the first round.

Lost Only One Decision. Moore is a little sketchy about his professional career but if he remembers correctly it was his thirty-sixth knockout in 43 bouts since he left the ranks of the amateurs. And he has dropped but one decision, if his memory serves, that to Johnny Romero, whom he later knocked out.

Thus Archie rates a shot at the best of them. The writer saw him signal that he had had enough in an amateur contest in Cleveland a couple of years ago, in the National Amateur tournament, and since has not been convinced that he can "take it." But one has to admit that he has taken four straight fights here by knockouts in short order since he came back from the Pacific Coast and whether he can "take it" is a question which must remain unanswered until he meets a fighter who can give it.

The offer has been made to Conn. He has been guaranteed $2000 to meet Moore here and it is possible, but not probable, that he will accept.

In the meantime, it is only fair to Archie to say he's done everything that's been asked of him and that in fine, workmanlike fashion. Burke's Face Out, Bout Stopped. The bout followed a rather unfortunate ending to the semifinal in which Tiger Walker, Cincinnati Negro, won on a technical knockout over Jack Burke of Ogden, Utah. Burke suffered such a severe cut during the second round that Dr. Harry Klein of the Missouri Athletic Commission was summoned to the ringside to examine the wound between the second and third rounds.

Upon Dr. Klein's advice, Referee Ray Palmer stopped the match and awarded Walker a technical knockout. The cut was in Burke's right eyebrow and extended to his nose and was so deep that the bone was exposed. It required three stitches.

In the preliminaries, Dave Riley, Negro lightweight, a finalist in the recent Golden Gloves tournament, won his first start as a professional when he outpointed Bill Henley in four bitterly fought rounds.

Eddie Lee, St. Louis-born Chinese bantamweight, outpointed Elmer Howell in four rounds while Jack Conway stopped Tony Monaco in the fourth round. Tony was on the floor ready for the count as the bell rang ending the third and when he was groggy in the fourth, Referee Ray Palmer stopped the contest.

Notes. Ceccarelli, who had bragged a few days ago that he could make 165 pounds and still be strong, complained that removing 10 pounds in weight to get within the required limit of 170 pounds had weakened him. And when you questioned him as to the discrepancy in his statements he said, through an interpreter, that he had only made his original remark to make himself look big. And was your face red!

TIGERS SURE OF TITLE TIE; ROUT KANSAS, 55-30

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBIA, Mo., March 3.—Missouri basketball team, which has been kept busy as the Tigers defeated Kansas, their bitterest Big Six rival, 55 to 30, to clinch a share of the crown, ending a basketball title drought which had existed since 1920.

Harlan Kelsey, who closed his Missouri basketball career in the game, poured 14 points through the net, most of them one-handed set-ups. Bob Allen, center, and Lynn Corlis, guard, counted eight points each for the invaders.

The stands were filled at 7:20—40 minutes before game time. Officials estimated the attendance at 6300.

Stars of Midwest Table Tennis in Tournament Here

Outstanding table tennis players from seven midwestern states are gathering here for the two-day tournament of the Missouri Valley Association at Hotel De Soto. Two sessions, afternoon and evening, will be held tomorrow and Sunday.

In the men's division there will be approximately 64 entrants. This list is headed by George Hendry of St. Louis, who will be the top-seeded player, followed by Garrett Nash, also of St. Louis. Hendry and Nash, who rank second and fourth, respectively, in the nation, will represent the West in the East-West series in New York following the Missouri Valley tournament.

In the women's division a very strong list of contenders invades St. Louis. Miss Allyn Baldwin, the Western champion, will be here, as well as Mildred Wilkinson of Chicago, nation's No. 3 woman of the table net game. Miss Sally Greene of Indianapolis, Ind., termed the most dynamic girl player in the country, will also be a very serious threat to the field. St. Louis bases its hopes on Miss Marjorie Blattner, sister of Robert Blattner, to win the crown. Mrs. Tamara Hotz and Mrs. Esther Guenther will also compete for St. Louis.

Y. M. C. A. Table Tennis Meet

Efforts will be made tomorrow to decide who is the best table tennis player among all of the boys affiliated with the Y. M. C. A. here when finalists, representing the various "Y" branches, meet at North Side Y. M. C. A., 3100 North Grand boulevard, in a series of contests. Bill Price, well-known local player, will pick the champion.

Mautner Handball Champion

William Mautner won his second consecutive Class "A" single handball championship of the North Side Y. M. C. A. last night, defeating Jack Williams 21-16, 10-21, 21-19. In Class "B", Tony Frisling won championship honors, defeating Martin Schroeder, 20-21, 21-12, 21-18.

PICARD, SNEAD IN PLAYOFF FOR TITLE AND $700

By the Associated Press.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 3.—Smooth-stroking Henry G. Picard of Hershey, Pa., sought his third straight winter golf victory today in an 18-hole playoff of the St. Petersburg open with Sammy Snead.

Slammin' Sam from White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., forced the medal playoff match with an identical nine-under-par 207 to Picard's 94-hole performance.

Third money of $350 went to Chandler Harper of Portsmouth, Va., who lost in last year's playoff to Johnny Revolta of Evanston, Ill. A stroke behind the leaders, Harper was well ahead of Byron Nelson of Reading, Pa., and Hogan of White Plains, N. Y., who received $250 each for drawing at 211.

Seventeen pros in the $3000 event bettered par. Horace Williams Jr. of St. Petersburg took amateur honors at par.

Next stop of the touring troupe is the $5000 Miami Biltmore 4-ball match play event starting Sunday.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK, March 2.

IF I were fixing to set a trap at the New York World's Fair I would call it Police Headquarters, stick a couple of those green lights out in front and try to get enojbed by the Mayor or the Police Commissioner. Maybe they would seize me for impersonating a police station, and if so I would get some loud, cheap lawyer to habeas-corpus the joint. The publicity would put me over for one season, which would be enough.

WESTBROOK PEGLER

We would have no cuff in our plant. We would be strictly sleeveless, and all the debts, both male and female, the broken-down society tramps of both sexes, the tablecloth authors and playwrights, the men-about-town and the whole class of moochers of the night side of New York would be barred.

We would announce that all customers would have to lift their weight, and that would scare them off, but just for a gag we would get up circulars of all the celebrities who are commonly mentioned in the columns dealing with saloon society, using their pictures wherever possible, and hang them on the walls of headquarters, offering a reward of $50 for proof that any one of them ever bought a drink. That would be a safe offer.

THEIR KIND of trade brings publicity, to be sure, but what good is publicity if the free-loaders shove the cash customers off into the alcoves or crowd them out entirely? I just don't see how some of our night side operators get by with the mooching that goes on today. The scion trade, the bum society trade and the celebrity trade all create a large bundle of clippings in the course of a year, but I am not Mr. Zero and you can have that business. I will take the tourist and the honest local yokel out for ten bucks' worth of Saturday night.

I would treat them all right, too. I wouldn't kid anybody. I would announce that our regular $1.50 dinner could probably be duplicated for from 25 to 50 cents in any one of a thousand beaneries around town and admit that the margin was the jaller's graft or lug—a familiar practice in most American institutions of his kind. Food is really a nuisance in saloon type restaurants, and maybe after a while we would get down to the point of leaving a paper-mache sandwich at each plate or just painting a portrait of a slice of ham on each plate.

WHEN PEOPLE GO out rejoicing they want gin, rum, rye, Scotch and maybe a few layers of brandy for the small hours. We would keep some cheap champagne on hand, too, in case of couples out celebrating their fifteenth or twentieth wedding anniversaries with the in-laws and business customers.

I took a friend into Jack White's one night, and when this friend ordered scrambled eggs about one in the morning there was the damndest row in the kitchen that you ever did hear. The cook and the dishwasher poked their heads in to see what the guy looked like who was ordering food, and when the eggs finally came the busboy was two jumps ahead of the waiter with a whole tray of bicarb, bromo, bismuth and chewing gum.

I hear we have a place in town called the Fire House, but the Police Station would top that. We would have a desk inside the entrance, with a sergeant on duty in uniform to formally book the customers before turning them over to the turnkeys to be ushered to their cells.

NATURALLY, THEY wouldn't have to give their square name, and, of course, we wouldn't search them unless that became necessary along toward closing time. But we would hire famous retired cops—like, say, Dick Enright or Ed Mulrooney, if they could be had—to be around in their old uniforms, and maybe some old cannons or petmen to wait on table. Paroled guys would have to be out, because they can get picked up for working where liquor is served.

I don't see why we couldn't call our joint Police Headquarters. After all, how many Riverias and Versailles and Villa Venices and White Houses and Palaces have there been in this country? What about the MacFadden-Deauville and the Dempsey-Vanderbilt? What is so sacred about the name of Police Headquarters?

On Broadway —By Walter Winchell

THIS story belongs among the turf classics . . . Sammy Renick, the jockey, came to Hollywood about three months ago for a holiday and his host was Mark Hellinger . . . Harry Warner, the flicker mogul and horse-owner, was looking for a jockey at the time. He asked Hellinger if he knew a good one. Hellinger recommended Renick . . . The other Saturday the horse named "Mark Hellinger" raced at Santa Anita . . . It was a 4-to-1 shot and everybody agreed that it would be the big money horse that day . . . Not only out of loyalty, but because it was such a sure-thing, Hellinger put his bankroll on his namesake . . . Mark's horse took the lead from the start, and not only held onto it but increased it! . . . It was ahead by a length at the first quarter, a length and a half at the second, and so on, practically right up to the finish line . . . Then, at the wire, "Mark Hellinger" was beaten by "Forsooth" . . . Yes, you guessed it . . . Harry Warner owns "Forsooth," and the jockey was Renick!

WALTER WINCHELL

Warner owns "Forsooth," and the jockey was Renick!

F. L. HUTTON, the millionaire, was introduced to a columnist the other night . . . "This," said the introducer, who was Harry Richman, "is Barbara Hutton's father!" . . . Hutton jumped from his chair. "Now just one moment!" he said, a little irritated. "Many years ago they used to call me Ed Hutton's brother. When Barbara married Prince Midvian, I was known as Prince Midvian's father-in-law. And now that Barbara is famous, I'm called Barbara Hutton's father. The fact of the matter, young man, is this: Barbara is my daughter!"

IN THE BEST-SELLER, "Days of Our Years," by Van Paassen, the author relates this grand anecdote . . . An unofficial Italian observer was in the League of Nations cloakroom boasting of Italian conquests . . . "The Italian army," he said, "is invincible! We walked into Ethiopia, and nobody stopped us! If we want to walk into France, who will stop us?"

Nobody answered . . . This irked the boaster, so he repeated in a louder tone: "I say if we want to walk into France and take what we want, who will stop us?" . . . To which a mild little Frenchman turned around and squeaked: "Have you forgotten the customs officials?"

THE TIMES' John Kieran, better known to radio listeners for his nimble mind via the "Information Please" program, was invited to address the senior class at Yale some time ago . . . In introducing Kieran to the seniors, a certain professor "threw a curve" as the saying goes . . . He more or less apologized for the next speaker, "a mere sports writer" . . . The unusually laconic Kieran then took the floor and dumfounded the assemblage and the red-faced prof by delivering a lengthy oration entirely in Latin!

DON MARIO, a Cuban by birth, corrects the column's erratum on the meaning of the rumba dancers' cry, "Ah-Wah!" . . . We had been previously informed it was the equivalent of "Yeah Man!" . . . Its source, says Mario, is as follows: "It is a known fact that all wild rhythms from which rumbas and jazz spring originated among the Negroes in the jungles. Most of these wild tempos were created to the beating of the tom-toms, in order to work the dancers into a frenzy during their ceremonial dances. When a dancer was spiritually overcome, the others yelled: 'Agua, Agua!' (meaning water, water!) And the water was then poured over them to cool them off."

Poor Defensive Play by West In Bridge Game

His Failure to Use Diamond Ace Enables Declarer to Make Contract.

By Ely Culbertson

IT is one thing to defend a hand against a stolid, unimaginative declarer who runs all his ready-made tricks and then hopelessly surrenders himself to the mercy of his opponents. It is quite another to defend against the type of player who overlooks no bet, either psychological or technical, and always is on the alert to steal something that cannot be made by legitimate means. In today's hand West was asleep at the switch.

East, dealer.
North-South vulnerable.

The bidding:
East 3 spades
South Pass
West Pass
North Double
Pass

This bidding had several points of interest. East, it will be noted, used the new Culbertson three-bid based on an almost solid suit, with the minimum number of winners, namely, six. South, of course, had to pass on the first round. His hand was not nearly strong enough for an overall or double. West acted properly in passing. The responder should have at least one and one-half honor tricks in two suits to respond with three no trump to an opening three-bid, and needs greater strength for a suit response. North took the shrewd and proper course of doubling. Such a double (of an opening three-bid) is of an optional nature, that is, partner can pass if he has a worthless hand or one that he feels is better on defense, or can take out to a suit with about one and one-half honor tricks and a five card suit. In short, the partner can exercise his own judgment after this optional double. In this case, South felt that since he was vulnerable against non-vulnerable opponents, and since he had a spade stopper and scattered strength in the other three suits, that there would be an excellent play, for game at no trump. Though he was wrong in this judgment, I do not think that he should be criticized. For example, North might have had one more club or one more heart, and nine tricks might then have been a laydown.

As it was, the contract had to be stolen. West opened the spade seven and East made the eminently correct play of the 10 spot. East had no sign of an outside entry and his one hope of running the spade suit was to leave a spade in West's hand so that if West could stop one or more suits, he could put East on lead with that spade. Declarer won and made a lightning count of tricks. He saw that he had four clubs, three hearts and one spade and that he would need a diamond trick to make the contract. One thing was certain. If he were to cash his four clubs and three hearts, he never would be able to steal a diamond trick because, by that time, the defenders would be on the alert—they would have counted eight tricks for the declarer. The one chance to grab a diamond trick was to do it quickly, thus risking a severe penalty. Declarer, at the second trick, led a low diamond toward dummy's queen. West, as mentioned above, was fast asleep. Holding A J 9 of diamonds, he was so intent on establishing a tenace position for himself that would produce two diamond tricks that he failed to see what might happen. Surely it was not far-fetched to assume that if the diamond queen held, declarer might rattle off three hearts and four clubs which, in addition to the spade trick already home, would round out the contract. At any rate, when West played the diamond nine it was all over. Dummy's queen held and declarer shifted quickly to his sure winners in hearts and clubs.

Obviously, if West had been even reasonably alert, he would have put up the diamond ace without a second's hesitation and would have led another spade. East then would have run off six spade tricks and the contract, instead of being fulfilled, would have been defeated 300 points.

Etiquette :-- :-- By Emily Post
By Emily Post
Dear Mrs. Post: I am interested in the use of the term "Doctor" for women, especially that of Ph.D. Some of us holding the right to the title Doctor feel that it is not fair for others to dispense with it socially and on such occasions label us Miss or Mrs., as our status may be. We should like to have your pronouncement on this propriety.
Answer: An unmarried woman, who is actively engaged in work associated with the subject in which she earned this degree, should be called Doctor instead of Miss on all occasions. If she is married, however, and is in the company of her husband who is plain Mr., it is considered best taste to call her Mrs. If she goes by herself, to a woman's club or other meeting, she would be called Doctor and particularly when, as a speaker, she is introduced to an audience.

Dear Mrs. Post: When one has three given names, is it necessary when having visiting cards engraved to use the full name? For instance, Mr. and Mrs. John Henderson, Lemingway Johnstone. Would Mr. and Mrs. John H. L. Johnstone be equally as proper, or is this according to one's own personal taste?
Answer: Initials are usually chosen when a name is too long to fit on a card of ordinary size. Otherwise, the name written out is in best form. But when people who have several names dislike one of them, it is quite proper to indicate this by an initial.
Dear Mrs. Post: Does an employer—man or woman—call a chauffeur by first name or last name?
Answer: It is slightly smarter, perhaps, to call a chauffeur by his last name, but his first name is used equally often and with equal propriety.

IF YOU ASK My OPINION

By MARTHA CARR

Dear Mrs. Carr:
TOO, AM a mother of a boy and girl in their adolescent years, but my experience with them is just the opposite of "Old-Fashioned." There is no need for young people to be "muddled or confused," as she puts it. I have talked clearly and plainly with my children ever since they started asking me questions about the facts of life. I have gained their confidence and there is no question too large or too small for us to discuss.
I have taught my son reverence
for womanhood and my daughter to be a lady under all circumstances; to choose their friends wisely and we have had no occasion to criticize anyone they have brought home. I have the young, people about a great deal and never have heard the boys make a disrespectful remark. They all confide in me about their puppy love.
Of course, they are not perfect and often do not see my point at first.
But, guiding these children has been the most glorious time of my life.
MODERN MOTHER.

Dear Mrs. Carr:
READING YOUR column, I noticed "Mrs. A. E. R." was looking for a Bohemian orphanage. For your information and hers, there is a Bohemian orphanage located in Fenton, Mo., known as the "Hesperian Orphanage," and its telephone number is Fenton 55-1. H. C.

Dear Mrs. Carr:
I AM A YOUNG girl in my early teens. Recently I wrote a story. Everyone I told it to likes it very much. I would love to have it published in a magazine or something but at the same time I'd like some money for it. The story itself is good but I don't know how to write it good—the descriptions, etc. Is there such a place where I could send my story and they would rewrite it or help me with it?
MARIAN H.

First of all, you need more schooling, better spelling and other fundamentals. If you were to send a manuscript to a professional reader or agent, I am not sure he would consider it worthwhile reading even if the plot were out of the usual. And certainly you would get very little money for it. I can give you the names of several literary agents but not in the column; also, I could not vouch for the success you would have through them as the literary field, like other fields of business, is something of a game of chance.

Dear Mrs. Carr:
I AM WRITING to ask if there is a school where my daughter could take up typing and bookkeeping. She is in her second year of high school, but they will not teach her these studies until she is in her third year. Her father is afflicted and she needs to get this training as soon as she can as she has a promise of employment as soon as she can learn this work.
FROM A MOTHER.

It is possible that the public school rules you mention apply also to night school; but you might make inquiry about them. Beaumont has classes on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights; Selden on Tuesday and Thursday nights; Cleveland, Monday and Wednesday, and Roosevelt and McKinley on Tuesday and Thursday nights.

Dear Mrs. Carr:
I WOULD LIKE to know if you know of a place to board children? A friend of mine has a baby girl 15 months old; the mother works every day and hasn't anyone to take care of the baby. She had a girl to look after the child, but this girl got employment and cannot take care of her anymore.
DAILY READER.

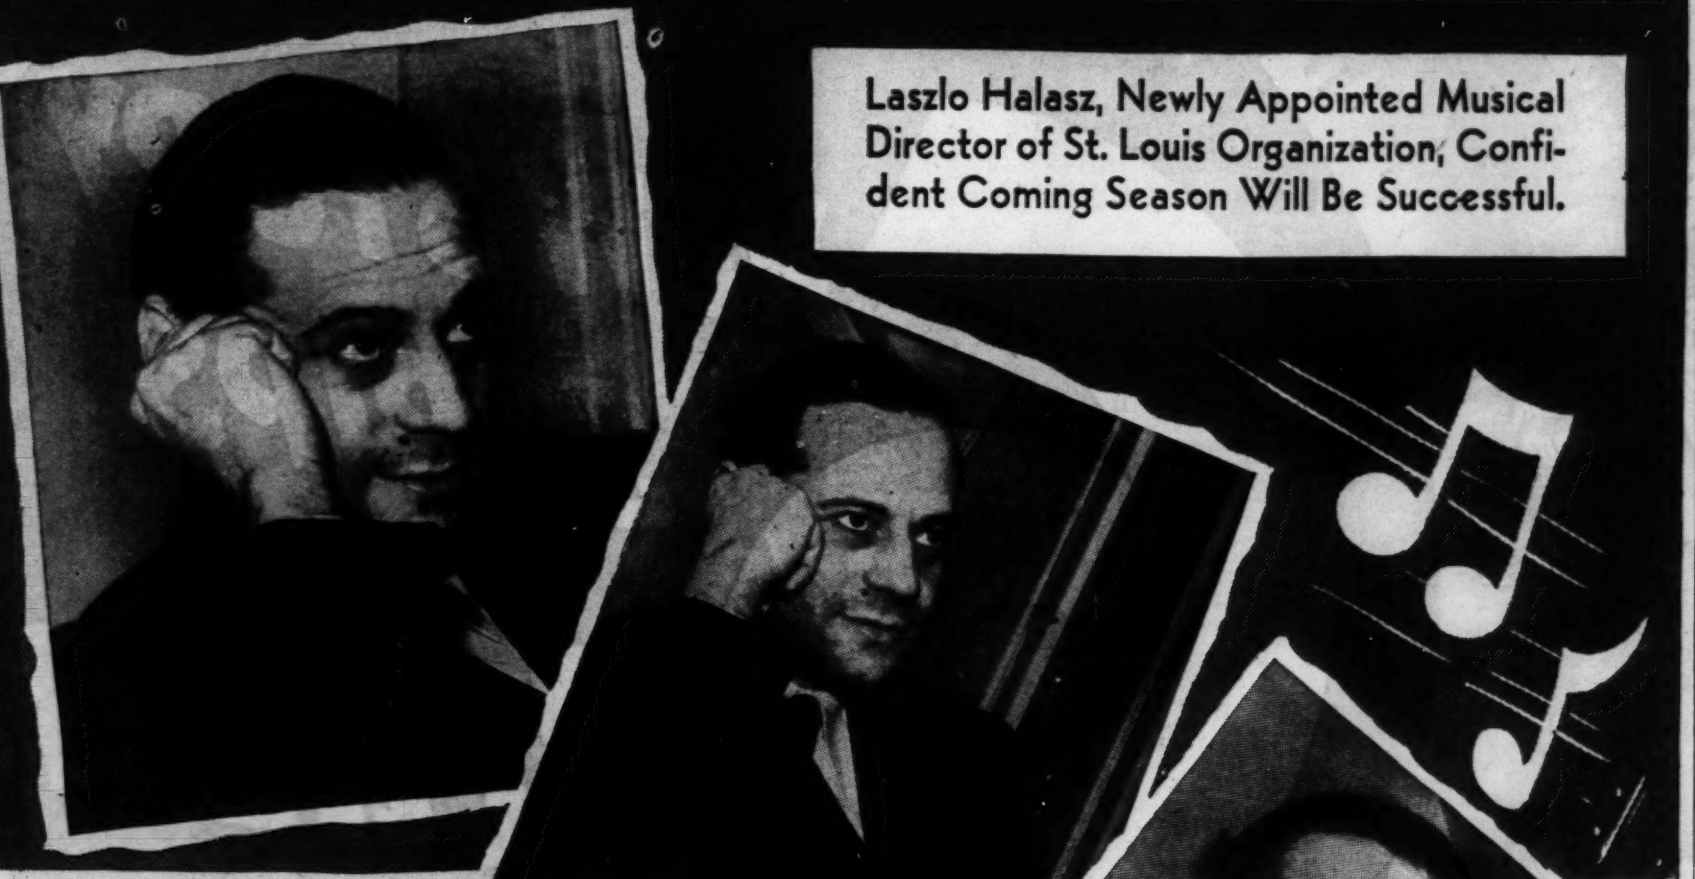

I am sorry, but I cannot recommend private places to board children.

Dear Mrs. Carr:
WHEN PEOPLE in your husband's office give a wedding gift—
should it be acknowledged by a thank you card that you have written yourself or one that you had printed for the occasion? Also, when acknowledging gifts from friends of your husband's that you hardly know, is it proper to thank them in long hand or a printed card?
Also is it proper to have everyone who gave you a wedding gift at your home for dinner, tea or some sort of gathering? MRS. T. S.

In answer to your first two questions, a personal note is the correct form of thanks for all wedding gifts. You write the notes to your husband's friends as well as your own, thanking them for the two of
you. It is not necessary to invite everyone who has given you a present to your new home, especially if your wedding was a very large one and many of the gifts from family friends and business acquaintances. It is, however, a nice gesture, to invite as many as possible off and on throughout the months following your wedding.

THE RETURN TO RELIGION

CHAPTER TWELVE.
THE educational system, by its very nature, tends to discourage the development of specific forms of superiority. It tends to flatten out people's aptitudes rather than to cultivate them. In trying to regiment students for life in general, it fails to develop habits of mastery in specific phases of life.
I am not concerned here with the long-standing controversy in regard to the merits of a liberal education and a specialized education.
Even a liberal arts college could involve its students in one intensive and superior work in one line of courses. Conversely, many students coast through an engineering school without being really superior in their work.
Even in the high schools and grade schools, superiority or greatness in a few directions could be made a condition. One child might develop a superior hand in one phase of engineering. The issue is one of standards and discipline, not merely one of content or the subject matter of the courses studied.

"I WANTED TO BE A PIANIST, BUT WAS NOT HAPPY ABOUT PRACTICING."

By Clarissa Start

SEVERAL weeks ago, Thomas B.
Sherman, music commentator of the Post-Dispatch, optimistically offered the opinion that St. Louis was about to see "a new deal in opera" as a result of the forming of the new St. Louis Metropolitan Grand Opera Association in December, the scheduling of three operas
for the April season, and the engaging of such stars as Lauritz Melchior, Giovanni Martinelli, and Ezio Pinza for these performances.
But should any doubting Thomasess still regard this midwestern city as incapable of appreciating fine opera, and the whole thing as an impractical pipe dream,
very pretty but unworkable, all skepticism should vanish at the candid and forthright confidence of the opera association's newly appointed musical director, Laszlo Halasz, who has an arm's length string of reasons why this new venture cannot fail.
"I can see nothing but success
for the coming season," said Halasz, his Hungarian accent quite charming, but his tone as firm as if he had said, "They shall not pass." The tall, dark, and personality-looking young director, who was not at his usual post, in the seeling center of rehearsals at the auditorium, when he delivered this message, but in his hotel apartment, recuperating from our local equivalent of a key to the city, an attack of the flu.
This bit of adversity had not dimmed the zest he has for opera and for the coming opera in particular, however, and though he occasionally interrupted his enthusiastic words to tell a telephone intruder that, "Meenus 'Alasz cannot come to the phone because she has making herself be-yootifool," by the time he had hung up, he would be talking again about opera.
"Look at the success of 'Tristan,'" he said, referring to the opera he conducted here in December of 1937, "when we had only one singer of note, Flagstad. Now there will be four in 'Die Walkure' alone. Moreover," he added, sagely striking the practical note,

"everything is backed financially,
and that is an important factor."
From this canny observation, you may gather that this Halasz, one-time assistant to Toscanini, is not only an artist, but a realist about this ticklish business of capturing public fancy. And the reasons he gives for predicting success are realistic ones.
"After all," he argues, "what do you need for opera? A good orchestra? The St. Louis symphony is easily one of the first five in the country. A good chorus? That was always a hard problem but no longer one now that members are paid and have hope of regular engagements through the year.
Last year their greatest disappointment was that they did not get to sing one of the operas which they had learned and rehearsed.
Actually that was much worse than
the fact that they were unpaid.
But this year it is different, and we had 400 at the tryouts alone, could hardly believe my eyes. We selected 80 but I had to send away 60 per cent of my last year's chorus."
Regarding the raised morale of the chorus, there is that matter of the contest among the sopranos,
Pinza, who is an American citizen.
There is another point of interest to young people. With English operatic coming in, there will be a greater field for American singers,
for it will cut out all possibilities of dialect. It has not yet been announced, but our 'Faust' cast will be all American. Charles Kullman
as Faust, Lucy Monroe as Marguerite, and as Mephistopheles, Ezio
Pinza, who is an American citizen.
Asked whether he believed there was any conflict between symphony and opera, Halasz was vehement
in his denials.
"There is the closest co-operation between symphony and opera. Our spring operas will be presented when the symphony closes, and our fall ones before the symphony begins. There has not only been close co-operation but planned cooperation between the two of us,
of the leading operatic groups, the German, the French, and the Italian. Therefore we have Die Walkure, Otello, and Faust. But more than that, we have the works of three great dramatists, Goethe, Shakespeare, and Wagner. Few people know that Wagner was one of the greatest German dramatists

and that his dramas could be presented on the stage without music. We want to point out to St.
Louisans that opera is musical drama, not just music with a little acting thrown in.
"We want to introduce operas
that will appeal to children,
too. Next Christmas we will give Hansel and Gretel in English.

Parents Who Pretend for Sake of Child

Sending Girl to School They Can't Afford Is Serious Mistake.

By Angelo Patri

"I KNOW it is going to be expensive, but I want her to have the best possible background and the right associates.
We will have to make some sacrifices for her. I am sure I don't mind," said mother.
"I wouldn't mind if I thought we could make the grade, but I don't see how we can, on a salary, can do what these other people do on a big income. Sending her to the private, select school, is only the beginning. There will be clothes, social obligations she will have to meet, the things that go with that standard of living. I don't think it is wise to start her off on a footing she cannot hold. I'm against it," said father.
So am I. There are reasons, and good ones, for sending children to schools of our own choosing, but there is no reason for sending them to schools that cost too much for the family's ability to pay. There is no profit in placing a child among a group with whom she cannot associate naturally. Sooner or later the child must learn, usually with painful effect, that he cannot make friends with his schoolmates. He cannot return their hospitality, cannot attend their parties, or go along on their trips.
There is nothing that makes for such grinding unhappiness as a desire to be what one is not and cannot be. The child born to a family in middle-class circumstances will be quite happy in his own group, but if he is placed among wealthier children with the idea of living as they live and doing as they do, he will be everlastingly dissatisfied, restless, and a failure.
Success in any field must depend upon a person's ability to adjust himself to conditions. If the conditions can be met this is not so hard, but if they cannot be met the adjustment is impossible, and mental and spiritual unrest must result.
Why try to force such impos-ible adjustments? A child can be happy and successful where he belongs. He can develop his talents in the school whose price is within the family's power to pay. A school is a place where children are helped to develop their latent abilities, and as for the fact that school to develop a mind and a body fit for this work?
Pretending is a costly business.
It makes for insincerity, for all sorts of secret scheming, petty gestures that belittle the soul. A family is entitled to pride in its own right. Pretending to a place
one has not, which one cannot fill,
is belittling that pride, disowning
one's heritage.
Send the children to the school that can be paid for. Buy them
the clothes, give them the background that costs no more than the family can pay. Leave the rest to the children. Given good health, intelligence, and education; they can go on and rest the rest of their lives. They do not need pretensious trappings. Let them be who they are, what they are, and, above
all, secure their happiness and success by teaching them to live within their means. They can be only themselves no matter what the trappings.
Children who are liberal with their parents' property and Liberals who are free with the lives and property of society stem from the same source. They exemplify the emancipation from traditional restraints without regard to their value in comparison with modern ideas. They represent minds dragged loose from their moorings, plunging confidently in dangerous directions. The more powerful such minds the greater their potential havoc.
There is great need in the field
of education for the codification of values and basic truths about human nature; for the preservation and honoring of the noble traditions which the race has acquired; for the subordination of intellectual arrogance to the discipline of the unselfish life. Where, better than in religion, can the basis for such a synthesis of the past with the present
be found?
Tomorrow: The Abundant Life.
Remove Stairs First.
Table should be looked over for stains before putting in the wash tub. Soapy water will set the stains and measures should be taken to remove any marks before immersing in the suds.

CORPORATE TAX LAW REVISIONS BEING DRAFTED

Consolidation of Five Levis Into Two Among Amendments Reported Considered.

ATTENTION GIVEN TO CAPITAL LOSSES

Morgenthau Says He Will Be Glad to Meet Congress' Request for Ideas on Subject.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, March 4.—Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau said today he would be glad to prepare information requested by congressional leaders regarding possible tax revisions which would encourage business.

The information was requested yesterday by Chairman Harrison (Dem.), Mississippi, of the Senate Finance Committee and Doughton (Dem.), North Carolina, of the House Ways and Means Committee. In a letter to the legislators, Morgenthau said: "I hasten to reply that we shall be very glad to prepare the information you desire and to present it to your respective committees at your convenience."

Morgenthau said he appreciated Harrison and Doughton's pledge of co-operation with administration efforts to aid business. Meanwhile, it was reported, revisions of the corporate tax law were being drafted as one means of stimulating business. These revisions, it was indicated, will be aimed at consolidating into possibly two levies the five separate taxes now paid by corporations.

Attention was being given to suggestions for liberalizing the allowances for capital asset losses, it was reported. Reports also were heard that Treasury officials might agree to restoration of the system under which firms were allowed a two-year "carryover" on business losses. Prior to 1932, a corporation which suffered a loss could use it to offset profits in two succeeding years.

In their letter to Morgenthau, Harrison and Doughton expressed approval of recent administration assurances that business men need fear no new tax burdens. They added: "It is our belief that the members of the Committee on Ways and Means and the Committee on Finance hold definite views relating to these matters which are generally consistent with the purposes recently announced; and we believe that any well-defined recommendations concerning such modifications of the present tax law as will encourage private industry to increase employment, add to the purchasing power of the people and stabilize the revenues to the Government will be most helpful. We stand ready and anxious to co-operate."
